Foreword

Inspired by the UN ‘Protect, Respect and Remedy’ framework developed by John Ruggie, the idea of a corporate human rights benchmark first gained traction in 2013, arising from a seemingly straightforward problem; despite decades of engagement on human rights by the global community, there was no wide-scale, credible and, most importantly, publicly available source of information on corporate human rights performance.

Four years later, in March 2017, after extensive multi-stakeholder consultation, methodology development, research, engagement and analysis, the newly formed ‘Corporate Human Rights Benchmark Ltd’ (CHRB) published its first benchmark. This assessed just under 100 global listed companies, from the Apparel, Agricultural Products and Extractives Industries, on their human rights performance and ranked them against each other.

As a ground-breaking initiative, the pilot benchmark gained a lot of attention and we have seen significant impact since its launch. I am delighted that individual investors are using the CHRB data to inform engagements with companies, particularly where they are pushing for improved disclosure and higher scores in future years. A wider coalition of over 80 investors (with over $5tn assets under management) has written to the benchmarked companies, asking them to carefully consider and respond to the CHRB findings. Many of these companies have responded directly, detailing their efforts to improve their human rights performance and using the CHRB to inform their own gap analyses. Discussions with consultants have revealed that companies are bringing in outside support to help improve their scores on future benchmarks and some human rights champions within companies have indicated that the benchmark has elevated human rights to senior management, prompting more detailed and transparent human rights reporting. While it will take some time to generate (and assess) changes that filter down to ground level, to see such impacts in a relatively short time is extremely encouraging and 2017 has been a clear validation of the approach taken by the CHRB to date.

A cornerstone of CHRB’s approach is actively listening and responding to stakeholders as part of an ongoing engagement process to ensure credibility. Following the pilot launch, CHRB undertook a 5-month consultation, including multi-stakeholder meetings in 10 different countries. Picking up on the lessons learned during the pilot, the CHRB Methodology Committee reviewed the input from over 300 individuals and organisations, resulting in the production of this revised Methodology for the Agriculture, Apparel and Extractives Industries for 2018. Human rights are fundamentally qualitative and hard to measure, which makes it difficult for any assessment to do justice to the complexity of the issues involved. For this reason, while I remain convinced of the robustness of the CHRB methodology, it will only ever provide a proxy rather than an absolute measure of human rights performance.

However, I remain convinced of the essential role benchmarks can play in the promotion of human rights objectives around the world. By creating a positive competitive environment, encouraging greater transparency and evidence based advocacy, and by enabling the public and investors to make more informed choices. The pilot has validated our approach and capacity to generate impact. In applying this improved methodology to the same group of companies in 2018, we will continue to support these objectives and will be able to demonstrate how companies have acted to improve their transparency and performance regarding human rights.

Steve Waygood
Chair of the Board, Corporate Human Rights Benchmark
Chief Responsible Investment Officer, Aviva Investors.

Acknowledgments

The Corporate Human Rights Benchmark Ltd (CHRB) is a not for profit company created to publish and promote Corporate Human Rights Benchmarks (Benchmarks). The CHRB was launched in 2013 as a multi-stakeholder initiative and draws on investor, benchmarking and business and human rights expertise from 7 organisations: APG Asset Management, Aviva Investors, Business and Human Rights Resource Centre, the Eiris Foundation, the Institute for Human Rights and Business, Nordea Wealth Management and VBDO.

This 2018 Methodology document is an updated version of the 2016 Pilot Methodology, which was itself the result of extensive multi-stakeholder consultation around the world over two years, involving representatives from over 400 companies, governments, civil society organisations, investors, academics and legal experts. This updated version incorporates changes based on the Methodology Addendum published in 2017 and multi-stakeholder consultations held from June to October 2017.

The CHRB would like to thank the Governments of the Netherlands, the United Kingdom and Switzerland for their vital financial support.

The CHRB would also like to thank all the stakeholders who contributed to the Pilot Benchmark and to the 2017 consultations. A full list of all those who contributed their time, expertise and energy will be available in the CHRB Progress report (to be launched in March 2018).

Thanks also to APG Asset Management, the Australian National Human Rights Commission, Aviva, the Business and Human Rights Resource Centre, BSR, Caux Roundtable Japan, CREER, ICAR, IHRB, KPMG, Nordea, PwC, UNEPFI, UNGC, Australia, UNPRI and VBDO for their support in organising and hosting CHRB consultations.

The CHRB would also like to acknowledge the contribution ReplikRisk will make to the 2018 Benchmark as a provider of ESG risk metrics and analytics for the Serious Allegations Measurement Theme in the Methodology.
A full glossary is available in Annex 5, however three key definitions are included below:

Supplier: For the Agricultural Products industry, refers to the product source (e.g. farm, fishery, ranch, etc.). For the Apparel industry, refers to all manufacturing sites.

Supply chain: Refers to all supply chain business relationships, including both direct and indirect, tier 1 and beyond.

Extractive business partners: Refers to operational level contractors (includes on-site and off-site contractors involved in operations (such as those involved in resettlement operations or other similar operations off-site), contracted security providers, etc.) and joint ventures or similar contractual arrangements with multiple parties to carry out exploration and/or production.
Why the Need for a Benchmark?

Chapter 1 looks at the need for a benchmark and covers:

- The Challenge
- The Levers for Change
- CHRB Objectives and Expected Impacts
The Challenge

Human rights are basic standards to ensure dignity and equality for every person and companies can have both positive impacts on human rights as well as negative impacts. Business can create jobs and secure livelihoods, provide products and services, support community development and provide tax revenue for the state to invest in the well-being of its people. Yet, without a sound commitment to human rights, and their implementation through due diligence, a wide range of potential negative impacts can arise including precarious employment through poverty wages, the dispossession of indigenous peoples’ ancestral lands and the prevalence of modern slavery.

It was only in 2011 that the first global set of operational principles, the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights or UNGPs, were officially endorsed following six years of development and global multi-stakeholder consultation.
The UN Guiding Principles affirm the fundamental responsibility that companies must respect the rights of workers, communities, consumers and others potentially affected by their own operations as well as by their business relationships, and demonstrate how they are doing so. They have since been reflected in other international standards including the OECD
Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises, IFC Performance
Standards and ISO 26000 Social Responsibility Guidance, reinforcing the status of the UN Guiding Principles as the authoritative baseline for corporate respect for human rights.

Preventing adverse impacts on workers, communities and consumers, is one of the most pressing challenges faced by companies in today’s global marketplace. Given the relatively recent establishment of the UN Guiding Principles as the first clear baseline for how businesses should conduct their activities to avoid negative impacts on people, many companies are only beginning to implement or improve their human rights related policies, processes, practices and responses.
This can be complex. It takes time and dedication to raise the operating standard of all companies to one where “responsible”
and “sustainable” performance is the only performance.

This is a fundamental challenge, but there are already companies progressing rapidly in embedding human rights into their core business. By preventing and mitigating harm to people, company leaders are also reporting substantial benefits to their business.

The CHRB Pilot results, published in March 2017 highlighted a class of companies, including BHP Billiton, Marks & Spencer Group, Rio Tinto, Nestlé, Adidas and Unilever, taking a leadership position and driving forward corporate human rights performance. But, as our Pilot Benchmark showed, there is still a huge amount to be done by companies to ensure that people’s rights are respected; only three companies in the pilot score more than 60% and the average score across all compa"nies was under 30%. Many are focused on the demands of quarterly returns and view human rights as peripheral or relatively irrelevant to their core business model. Roughly one third of "enchmarked companies did not score any points for publicly committing to respect human rights and over one half are not scoring anything for publicly committing to respect care labour rights.

The CHRB recognizes that implementing respect for human rights across a company’s activities and business relationships is not simple. It takes commitment, resources and time to embed respect for human rights into the ways that a large diverse workforce thinks and acts. Moreover, companies rarely control all the circumstances in which they operate;
these contexts may change rapidly and serious human rights dilemmas may arise.

With the EU’s mandatory non-financial disclosure directive
(2014), the UK Modern Slavery Act (2015), the French Due Diligence Law (2017), and Germany’s statement in its National Action Plan that the government will examine further steps, including legislative measures, if more than 50% of all German-based companies with over 500 employees have not taken credible action to integrate human rights due diligence in their operations by 2020, we are seeing a shift towards more mandatory reporting. This should prompt more companies to embed human rights across their activities and to report on their performance, even though it is still early to see these reflected in practice.

The challenges surrounding negative human rights impacts are particularly acute in focus industries for the CHRB 2018 Benchmark, namely the Agricultural Products, Apparel and Extractives Industries, as set out below. These impacts are often linked via a business relationship, prompting more responsible companies to try to change the behaviour of their partners, which for the largest companies can number in the thousands and even hundreds of thousands. This provides both risks, given value chains, but also important opportunities to improve responsible business conduct globally.

CHRB seeks to help address these challenges, by creating year on year comparisons of the human rights performance of large corporations that are transparent, freely available and legitimate in the eyes of companies, civil society, investors and governments.

The Levers for Change

The kinds of negative impacts on workers and their families, communities and customers occurring via companies’ activities and business relationships are the by-product of a global market failure. Markets are not routinely promoting corporate human rights responsibility or innovation through investment decisions and the allocation of capital; media scrutiny, regulation or advocacy for companies that are managing their human rights risks and impacts well. Because of this, most companies have no reason to account for their social ‘costs’; their impacts on human rights. As a consequence, capital is being misallocated; companies that impose the costs of their negative impacts onto workers, communities, and local governments are able to raise capital at the same rate as their more responsible peers, ultimately making them more competitive.

The CHRB aims to address this gap, by assessing certain factors across many companies to give a proxy measure of their human rights performance. This includes assessing the availability and quality of companies’ policy commitments on human rights and how they are governed, and assessing the effectiveness of the systems and processes implementing those commitments and specific practices to prevent impacts or respond to serious allegations.

Ultimately, if business is to serve society, respecting human rights should be a competitive advantage. In ranking the largest companies on their human rights performance, the CHRB is seeking to incentivize companies to race to the top of the annual Benchmark – within and across industries. CHRB’s objectives and expected impacts are detailed on the following page.
Introduction to the CHRB

Chapter 2 looks to introduce the CHRB in more detail and covers:

- Who is the CHRB?
- Development of the 2018 Methodology
- Features of the Corporate Human Rights Benchmark
Who is the CHRB?

Corporate Human Rights Benchmark Ltd, is a not for profit company guided by an Advisory Council made of eight organisations and three independent advisors (see CHRB website for more detail). The CHRB Advisory Council is chaired by Steve Waygood, Chief Responsible Investment Officer at Aviva Investors. The other members of the Advisory Council are: Angelique Laskewitz (VBDO), Anna Pot (APG Asset Management), Bennett Freeman (Independent), Gerbrand Haverkamp (Independent), John Morrison (IHRB), Magdalena Kettis (Norddea), Margaret Wachenfeld (Independent), Peter Webster (Eiris Foundation) and Phil Bloomer (BHRRC).

The CHRB’s focus is on creating publicly available benchmarks that rank leading companies on their human rights performance. The ultimate aim, to rank the top 500 globally listed companies, will be achieved incrementally. Following the launch of the pilot benchmark in 2017, in 2018 CHRB will repeat the process for the Agricultural Products, Apparel and Extractives Industries, while simultaneously developing further methodologies for new industries.

Separate to the Advisory Council, the CHRB Methodology Committee, led by Margaret Wachenfeld (IHRB, Themis Research) and Peter Webster (Eiris Foundation), directed the development of the CHRB Methodology and is responsible for leading reviews and updates, as well as for technical oversight of the research process for producing the Benchmark each year.

The CHRB employs two full-time members of staff, Daniel Neale (the Programme Director) and Camille Le Pors (the Programme Manager), responsible for day-to-day management of the CHRB, managing the research process and engagement on behalf of the CHRB Advisory Council.

Features of the Corporate Human Rights Benchmark

Transparency

The UN Guiding Principles expect companies to both know and show that they are respecting human rights. In order to prompt further disclosure by companies on the topic of human rights, the CHRB research process uses only publicly available information for the assessment – with one exception under the Responses to Serious Allegations Measurement Theme E, which utilises external sources. This is an effort to drive transparency by companies on their human rights approaches and also to ensure that the CHRB itself is as transparent as possible in how it reaches its results and what information its assessments are based upon.

As the level of information companies publish on their approaches to human rights increases, companies will gain recognition for their efforts; those affected by companies will be able to better understand the measures a company is taking to avoid impacts; investors can better direct their finances; civil society can use the information to target their campaigns and advocacy; and governments and policy makers can better target their interventions.

Policies, Processes, Practices and Responses

In order to offer a truly rigorous and credible proxy measure of corporate human rights performance, the CHRB seeks to assess companies’ human rights performance at several levels. These include the policy level (Measurement Theme A), the process and systems level (Measurement Themes B and C), the performance level, including specific practices (Measurement Theme D) and responses to serious allegations (Measurement Theme E), as well as a final level focusing on a company’s overall transparency (Measurement Theme F).

These levels have been carefully developed through numerous consultations with stakeholders to seek to achieve a balance between measuring actual human rights impacts on the ground as well as the effectiveness of policies and processes implemented across large and complex companies to systematically address their human rights risks and impacts.

International and Industry-Specific Standards

The Benchmark’s policy and process indicators have been carefully and consultatively developed to ensure they reflect and reinforce the expectations of the UN Guiding Principles. In addition, the CHRB Methodology also takes as its basis certain industry-specific global standards to ensure as relevant, rigorous and credible a ranking as possible when comparing companies within the same industry. These sources are listed in Annex 6.

Key Industry Risks

To aid the inter- and intra-industry comparative benefits of the Benchmark, the CHRB Methodology incorporates ‘key industry risks’ typically faced by companies in each industry. These are risks commonly regarded as potentially severe or likely within the industry. Companies are expected to demonstrate how they are preventing them through a process of human rights due diligence, or why they are not relevant for their operations. These key industry risks have been identified through extensive research and multi-stakeholder consultation.

While the key industry risks are anticipated to be relevant to companies in the industry, they may not necessarily match an individual company’s most ‘salient’ human rights issues. Salient human rights issues are those at risk of the most severe negative impacts through a company’s specific activities or business relationships. This means that while key industry risks are common, industry-wide human rights risks, whether they materialise or are ‘salient’ for a specific company may vary. As part of the CHRB Methodology, companies will be able to explain why any of the industry risks are not relevant to them and they will then not be marked down for not addressing them if there is sufficient justification. The lists are also not meant to indicate that these are the only human rights impacts of these industries.

These key industry risks will evolve and change within the Benchmark long-term, as some risks are managed and reduced, and others become more apparent. This will ensure that the Benchmark is always as credible a proxy measure for corporate human rights performance as possible. These were not changed for the 2018 Methodology, as CHRB did not receive requests for important thematic changes from the 2016 list (see the Explanatory document on the 2018 Methodology for more information).

Comparability

Comparability is vital in order for the CHRB to assess companies against each other and to track progress over time. The CHRB seeks to offer comparability in several different ways:

Across industries: The CHRB offers comparability of company human rights performance across a diversity of industries, namely the Agricultural Products, Apparel and Extractives industries. This means that, for example, an extractives company can be measured against an apparel company, enabling pan-industry competition on human rights.

Within industries: By utilising key industry risks and standards, the CHRB seeks to achieve the granularity necessary to compare companies within the same industry and identify those leading and lagging. It is expected that competition – and learning – among peers will be one of the most significant impacts of the Benchmark.

By Measurement Theme: The CHRB Measurement Themes have been carefully and consultatively developed to best assess overall corporate human rights performance. Companies can therefore be compared across any or all of the six CHRB Measurement Themes.

Over time: The CHRB will be produced annually, meaning companies will be able to demonstrate improvement in their human rights performance over time. As the CHRB is produced each year, an invaluable record will develop showing individual companies’ progress, as well as industry-level improvements, or lack thereof.

Limiting Factors

Proxies for Performance

As noted in the Foreword there are, as yet, no quantitative base units for corporate human rights performance. Human rights are about the dignity of each and every human life and about the core values that make life worth living. Ultimately, that is very hard to measure. But the Benchmark is a small step in moving companies along the path of seeing that value beyond the financial bottom line. The CHRB Methodology is seeking to deliver, based on expertise, research and consultation, the most accurate proxies for corporate human rights performance. These will continue to evolve over time as learnings and practice continue to emerge.
Coverage of company operations

The Benchmark ranks the largest publicly listed companies, often with extensive operations globally. The information drawn on for the Benchmark is as precise as the information released by companies on a disaggregated basis and available through reasonably accessible sources globally and locally. In order to deal with this challenge, the Benchmark scores companies based on demonstrating examples of good practices and asks for coverage of operations. While recognising that the information made available for such large-scale enterprises may be small, the Benchmark is about progress. It is expected that there will be expansion in coverage and depth of company operations over time, as examples are shared and transparency increases.

Scope

Human rights performance is a broad and developing area of study. To be able to create a meaningful comparison between companies, the scope of the methodology has been deliberately limited. A more detailed discussion on the scope of the 2018 methodology is included in the next section.
Chapter 3 provides a more detailed overview of the planned benchmark process in 2018, covering:

The CHRB engages with benchmarked companies to ensure that requirements of the 2018 Methodology and the research timeline are understood.

The CHRB’s Disclosure Platform opens. The CHRB encourages companies to include relevant information in their own documentation and websites and in their formal reporting. However, companies can make any new statements or information publicly available through the CHRB Disclosure Platform and that information may be used in Benchmark assessments as relevant for the individual indicators in question.

This ensures companies can put the most relevant and updated information in front of CHRB researchers. Should companies choose not to highlight or disclose any new information in the CHRB Disclosure Platform, researchers base their assessments on the information they can find in the public domain. All information on the CHRB Disclosure Platform will be publicly viewable.

A team of CHRB researchers carries out the research and analysis. Research focuses on reviewing material companies upload on the CHRB Disclosure Platform and from other additional public sources.

Companies are contacted with their draft Benchmark assessment and any outstanding issues from the research. Companies have an opportunity to review the research and analysis and feedback issues to the CHRB. This period of engagement with companies is an opportunity to understand and discuss any discrepancies in the analysis due to either a lack or misinterpretation of data.

This process will be especially important regarding allegations made by a third party about a company’s impacts. If at this point, the company is willing to disclose further information into the public domain to supplement research conducted to date, CHRB will accept and take this information on board in final assessments if relevant.

The CHRB Disclosure Platform re-opens. Following engagement with CHRB, companies are invited to submit information that was not picked up in the initial research, so that it can be analysed in the second review. Specific guidance regarding new information that can be disclosed and specific disclosure windows will be communicated closer to the time.

Following engagement with company representatives and review of new disclosures, the company’s scores are finalised.

A team of researchers not involved in the original company research will provide limited assurance of the CHRB research process.

The 2018 Benchmark is released.

Scope of the 2018 Benchmark

Agricultural Products
Focused on agricultural production (from farm production up to processing).

Apparel
Focused on production and manufacturing.

Extractives
Focused on exploration, development, production, decommissioning and closure.

CHRB indicators are often focused on particular business relationships within each industry that entail greater risks to human rights if unmanaged.

The 2018 Benchmark will rank 100 of the top listed companies across three industries by market capitalisation, adjusted to ensure geographic and industry balance.

Positive impacts
Impacts from the distribution, retail, end-use or consumption of products and services

Collective impacts
Impacts from the distribution, retail, end-use or consumption of products and services

Geography
Impacts from the distribution, retail, end-use or consumption of products and services

OUT OF SCOPE
Impacts from the distribution, retail, end-use or consumption of products and services

OUT OF SCOPE
Impacts from the distribution, retail, end-use or consumption of products and services

Scope of Industries and Industry Activities

The 2018 Benchmark will focus on the industries that were assessed in the Pilot Benchmark, namely the Agricultural Products, Apparel and Extractives industries. These industries were chosen following multiple stakeholder consultations held in 2014 and consider:

- the seventy of human rights impacts of the industry,
- the extent of previous work on human rights in the industry, including through industry-specific initiatives,
- the existence of other human rights-related benchmarks covering the industry, and
- the global economic significance by size or “connecting” influence.

Each industry has a wide range of human rights risks and impacts at every step of its value chain (in particular, see Figure 3) and the largest companies in the world covered by the Benchmark have particularly complex operations. The 2018 Benchmark therefore focuses on particular activities and relationships (see also the section below on Out of Scope areas). For the purpose of the 2018 Benchmark, the scope of activities for each industry is set out in Figure 7 below.

Scope of Business Relationships

Like the Pilot Benchmark, the 2018 Benchmark will focus on certain business relationships key to each industry that, if not managed at all or not managed well, entail particular risks to human rights and often to the company being benchmarked. Most of the companies that will be included in the CHRB will potentially have many thousands of different types of business relationships. Just as companies often need to prioritise which business relationships to focus on first, so has the CHRB needed to focus on certain types of relationships in each industry.

This is not to say that other types of business relationships are not important or may not involve human rights impacts, but for the purpose of the 2018 Benchmark, and being realistically able to understand and measure company’s performance, the CHRB has chosen to focus on particular business relationships set out in the image on the right.

Scope of Companies

To maintain consistency and to investigate changes, the companies from the 2017 pilot are being assessed for the 2018 benchmark. Companies were selected for the 2017 Pilot according to two criteria:

- Market capitalisation according to the FT 500; and
- Whether the company derives at least 20% of revenues from the relevant industry.

This is not to imply that human rights impacts from other activities in the industry value chain are less important or not relevant to a more complete picture of each industry’s full sweep of potential human rights impacts. A more complete assessment, across a wider range of activities, would be beneficial, but the current scope has been prioritised in line with CHRB’s global consultations and the resources available to conduct the benchmark research.

In addition, the CHRB sought to ensure:

- Geographical balance: At least six companies per continent, according to market capitalisation (based on Forbes 2000), were included in the Benchmark; and
- Industry balance: The top ten companies, according to market capitalisation (based on Forbes 2000), per industry were included in the Benchmark.

Companies were also assessed against more than one CHRB industry. For example, some retailers fell into both the Agricultural Products and Apparel industries. In this case retailers are assessed both in terms of how they manage their Agricultural Products and Apparel business. When considering what elements of a company to assess, the CHRB methodology considers subsidiaries, associated companies, joint ventures, franchises, divisions, operating units and certain discontinued operations as follows:

CHRB includes the following company structures when defining what is included as part of the company:

- Subsidiaries (+50% equity ownership)
- Associated companies (20-50% inclusive)
- Subsidiaries of associated companies
- Associated companies of subsidiary companies
- Joint ventures or consortia (with at least a 20% equity stake)
- Franchises
- Divisions
- Operating units
- Discontinued operations where it is clear turnover is still being derived (but subject to one year review)

Note that to avoid the pool of companies in the benchmark decreasing (for example due to mergers), additional companies may be added to the research pool to ensure the numbers are consistent with 2017. A complete list of the pilot benchmarked companies is available at www.corporatebenchmark.org (2018 Assessment page).
Out of Scope for the 2018 Benchmark

There are some aspects that contribute to the human rights performance of companies, but will not be covered in the 2018 Benchmark in order to focus on key issues and maintain a manageable scope.

Geography: Generally speaking, criteria in this Methodology have not been framed in terms of geographic location. So, while there are specific criteria for each industry, there are not specific criteria for companies operating in particular geographies – although there are some criteria that encourage companies to identify their salient risks, which might include geographical considerations.

Consumption of products and services: The 2018 Benchmark focuses on the production end of the value chain of each industry, rather than on the impacts linked to the distribution, retailing, end use or consumption of products and services (see also Industry Scope above). For example, food safety issues such as sugar content and obesity related to agricultural products or the consumption of gasoline in consumer vehicles. This focus may be added in future iterations of the Benchmark.

Positive impacts: In line with the UN Guiding Principles, the Benchmark focuses on measures to avoid adverse impacts on human rights. It does not consider positive impacts through, for example, CSR and philanthropic programmes.

Collective impacts: The Benchmark does not include issues that are relevant to human rights but where specific impacts on identifiable victims cannot be directly attributed to a particular company or its business relationships. For example, climate change links to human rights concerning a clean environment or taxation links to economic rights. It is not to imply that these impacts are not important or significant, but they cannot be measured using the kinds of performance measures currently incorporated in the Benchmark.

Future Benchmark

The CHRB intends to expand its scope to cover more industries and more companies over time. Further details will be available in the 2018 CHRB Progress Report.
The CHRB is comprised of six Measurement Themes (A to F). These cover companies’ human rights related policy commitments and governance, their systems and processes for implementing those policy commitments, their performance in relation to specific practices and responses to allegations of impacts, and their overall transparency.

Each Measurement Theme contains a series of indicators, which are grounded in the UN Guiding Principles on Business & Human Rights and international human rights standards, with additional industry-specific requirements applied to some indicators. Sources have been referenced throughout to highlight the alignment of each indicator to existing standards and practices.

The CHRB indicators follow a set structure, awarding either zero, half, one, one point five, or two points depending on whether the indicator requirements are assessed to have been met (following a review of publicly available information).

Each company is scored per Theme and the total score is compared to other companies to determine their place on the benchmark. For more details of the points system, please see Annex 2.

The rest of this chapter details the wider approach to scoring and covers the Themes and Indicators, their Weighting, Indicator Scoring, Cross-referencing and Types of Evidence.
The CHRB Methodology 2018

Approach to Scoring

The CHRB Measurement Themes and Indicators

The CHRB Methodology is composed of six Measurement Themes, each containing a series of indicators: Measurement Theme A focuses on governance and policy commitments, Measurement Themes B and C focus on systems and processes. Measurement Theme D focuses on specific practices to prevent human rights impacts in each industry and Measurement Theme E on responses to allegations of serious negative impacts on human rights. Measurement Theme F focuses on the level of transparency displayed by the company.

Weighting of Measurement Themes

The scores for the Measurement Themes are weighted according to the CHRB weighting rules to produce a company’s total CHRB score. Each Measurement Theme has a specific weighting, shown in Figure 11 below:

Indicator Scoring

Each Theme is broken down into multiple indicators. For each indicator a company may score zero, one or two points as well as 0.5 and 1.5 for certain multi-criteria indicators (see Annex 2 for a list of half scoring indicators). Half points are available in cases of multi-criteria indicators, where the company is asked to fulfil more than one requirement to get a full score of 1 or 2. Where this is the case, the indicator description will include an ‘AND’ in capital letters to separate those requirements. They must be distinguished from a lower case ‘and’ which merely introduce an additional idea within the same requirement (and do not therefore create a possibility to score a half point). Where there are more than two requirements for a score 1 or a score 2, the company can score half a point for any of those requirements but will need to fulfil all of them to obtain a full point.

A company will score zero points if they do not provide sufficient evidence to fulfill any of the requirements highlighted in Score 1. To gain two points a company must fulfill all the requirements outlined in Score 1 and Score 2. Indicator ‘Locks’ place specific requirements on generic indicators that apply to different industries (e.g. Apparel versus Extractives). These are mandatory requirements to reach the relevant score of 1 or 2.

Indicators can receive a single, double, half or quarter weighting. This is highlighted and explained in Annex 2, which contains all the scoring rules.

A company’s total score on a Measurement Theme is calculated by adding the number of points awarded in the respective Theme (taking into account specific indicator weightings) and dividing this number by the maximum number of points available. Special scoring rules apply to Measurement Theme E (Responses to Serious Allegations) and Measurement Theme F (Transparency).

Cross-Referencing

A wide range of global and industry-specific initiatives and standards were used to develop the CHRB Methodology. The major sources are listed in Annex 6.

Individual indicators also cross-reference specific sources to highlight the alignment of each indicator to existing standards and practices. Figure 13 below also lists the acronyms of sources specifically referenced in individual indicators.

Types of Evidence

The Benchmark will be using publicly available information coming from a company’s websites, their formal financial and non-financial reporting or other public documents, plus statements, such as those related to their policy commitments. These could be codes of conduct, policies, values, guidelines, FAQs and other related documents. The CHRB will also consider reports, such as annual, CSR, sustainability reports, or human rights reports if these are available, or other reports written for other purposes if these contain information applicable to CHRB indicators.

External sources of information, such as press articles, external reports or other sources will be used in Measurement Theme E - Responses to Serious Allegations. Only sources covered by Vigeo Eiris, BHRRC and RepRisk will be considered and each source used in the assessment will be shared with companies.

Sources mainly include multilateral organisations, trade unions and relevant NGOs. Analysts working for BHRRC, RepRisk and Vigeo Eiris regularly monitor email listings and search global press and NGO websites for information relating to alleged breaches and the Dow Jones/Reuters Factiva service is used to source news articles. General guidelines for reviewing such sources are detailed in Measurement Theme E.

For the assessment of the company’s response in Measurement Theme E, company sources will be used. Where in the interest of protecting victims, or in case of confidentiality issues related to an on-going court case, the CHRB will consider non-publicly available information on a case-by-case basis. Where it does so, it will indicate that this is the case.

The CHRB encourages companies to include relevant information in their own documentation and websites and in their formal reporting. However, companies can make any new statements or information publicly available through the CHRB Disclosure Platform and that information may be used in Benchmark assessments as relevant for the individual indicators in question. The Disclosure Platform will be opened and closed for set periods of time. Companies will be informed of these disclosure windows. Information submitted after a disclosure deadline may not be assessed by the researchers.
The Company describes how human rights performance is taken into account in the identification and selection of potential business relationships and how it can affect decisions to enter into or select business relationships.

The Company also describes how the human rights performance of business relationships interacts with decisions to renew, expand or terminate business relationships.

The Company takes human rights considerations into account when deciding to engage (or terminate) business relationships.

B.1.7 Engaging business relationships

The Company describes how human rights performance is taken into account in the identification and selection of potential business relationships and how it can affect decisions to enter into or select business relationships.

Score 1 - the description includes how this applies to the identification and selection of suppliers and the human rights issues considered.

Score 2 - the Company also describes how it works with suppliers to improve human rights performance and provides an example.

The Company also describes how the human rights performance of business relationships interacts with decisions to renew, expand or terminate business relationships.

Score 1 - the description includes how this applies to the identification and selection of extractive business partners and the human rights issues considered.

Score 2 - the Company also describes how it works with extractive business partners to improve human rights performance and provides an example.

Additional requirements a company within a certain industry must meet in order to gain a Score 1 or Score 2. These are not necessarily present on every indicator for every industry.

How to Read a CHRB Indicator

A typical CHRB indicator follows a specific structure, illustrated in Figure 12. Many of the terms in the Methodology have a specific definition that is drawn from international standards and industry-specific sources wherever possible. Please see the list of Sources Referenced in Annex 6 and the Glossary in Annex 5. In addition to the typical structure of a CHRB indicator, there are certain rules built into CHRB indicators.

Indicator rules are specified below:

- AND’s and OR’s: Most CHRB indicators operate using ‘OR’ and ‘AND’ rules. Where two or more requirements are separated by ‘OR’ in bold, companies being benchmarked are required to complete one of the options listed. Where two or more requirements are separated by ‘AND’ in bold, companies being benchmarked are required to complete both or all of the options listed in order to obtain a full point, but can score half points if they meet at least one of the requirements.

- Scoring: In order to meet the requirements of a Score 2, the requirements of a Score 1 must also be met.

- Industry Locks: Most CHRB indicators apply to all companies, regardless of industry. However, some industry specific ‘locks’ have been added to some indicators with additional requirements to achieve either a Score 1 or Score 2 for that particular industry. Industry locks are not necessarily present on every indicator. Benchmarked companies can score half points for meeting Lock requirements, but in order to receive a full point they are required to meet both the main requirements and the Lock requirements.

- Split indicators: There are some indicators in Measurement Theme D on Company Human Rights Practices that have been split into related parts. These either break down a broad issue into sub-issues or split the indicator’s focus between a company’s own operations and its supply chain. Where these exist, the parts (e.g. parts a and b) will add up to a whole indicator in terms of scoring. For example, part a of an indicator with four parts will be worth half the overall points, part c of an indicator with four parts will be worth a quarter of the overall points.

- Timeframe for examples: Many CHRB indicators require an example of the specific issue in question to be made public. In these instances, and unless otherwise specified in the indicator description, the timeframe within which such examples occurred is within three years of the start of the annual CHRB research cycle. There is an exception to this rule in the case of examples related to land and free prior and informed consent (FPIC), where the timeframe for when the example occurred is longer, recognising that these activities may occur less frequently, but the example provided must relate to ongoing and active operations/activities.

- Diversified companies: Diversified companies may be required to fulfill more than one set of industry requirements (e.g. AP and AG locks).

Figure 13 below lists the acronyms for sources referenced directly within individual CHRB indicators and to which the CHRB indicators are aligned. A wider set of references were also used to inform the development of the CHRB Methodology more generally, and are listed in Annex 6.

CHRB Methodology 2018

CHRB Methodology 2018

4 - Approach to Scoring
In order to offer a truly rigorous and credible proxy measure of corporate human rights performance, the Benchmark seeks to assess companies’ human rights performance at several levels. These include the governance and policy level (Measurement Theme A), the systems and process level (Measurement Themes B and C), the performance level, including specific practices (Measurement Theme D) and responses to allegations (Measurement Theme E), as well as a final level focusing on a company’s overall transparency (Measurement Theme F).

These levels have been carefully developed through numerous consultations with stakeholders to seek to achieve a balance between measuring actual human rights impacts on the ground as well as the effectiveness of policies and processes implemented across large and complex companies to systematically address their human rights risks and impacts.

These Measurement Themes and their specific indicators will evolve as the CHRB Methodology is regularly reviewed and learnings on effective approaches to managing human rights continue to emerge.

The rest of chapter 5 is split into the 6 different measurement themes and their indicators.
This Measurement Theme focuses on a company’s human rights related policy commitments and how they are governed. It includes two related sub-themes:

Policy Commitments: These indicators aim to assess the extent to which a company acknowledges its responsibility to respect human rights, and how it formally incorporates this into publicly available statements of policy.

Board Level Accountability: These indicators seek to assess how the company’s policy commitments are managed as part of the Board’s role and responsibility.
These sub-themes are broken down into the following indicators and weightings:

A. Policy commitments (5%)

A.1.1 Commitment to respect human rights
A.1.2 Commitment to respect the human rights of workers
A.1.3 Commitment to respect human rights particularly relevant to the industry
  A.1.3.a Land and natural resources - Agricultural products industry
  A.1.3.b People’s rights - Agricultural products industry
A.1.3 Apparels industry
A.1.3 Extractives industry
A.1.4 Commitment to engage with stakeholders
A.1.5 Commitment to remedy
A.1.6 Commitment to respect the rights of human rights defenders

A.2 Board level accountability (5%)

A.2.1 Commitment from the top
A.2.2 Board discussions
A.2.3 Incentives and performance management

---

Policy Commitments

What do the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights expect?

A policy commitment is a statement approved at the highest levels of the business that shows the company is committed to respecting human rights and communicates this internally and externally.

Note: The term “statement” is used to describe a wide range of forms a company may use to set out publicly its responsibilities, commitments, and expectations – this may be a separate human rights policy or human rights commitments within other formal policies, or provisions within other documents that govern the company’s approach such as a company code, business principles, etc.

Why is this important?

A policy commitment sets the “tone at the top” of the company that is needed to continually drive respect for human rights into the core values and culture of the business.

It indicates that top management considers respect for human rights to be a minimum standard for conducting business with legitimacy; it sets out their expectations of how staff and business relationships should act, as well as what others can expect of the company.

It should trigger a range of other internal actions that are necessary to meet the commitment in practice.

Board Level Accountability

What do the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights expect?

The development and implementation of a company’s approach to human rights should be guided from the top of the business, which for larger companies is the Board.

Companies need to strive for coherence between their responsibility to respect human rights and policies and procedures that govern their wider business activities and relationships. This should include, for example, policies and procedures that set financial and other performance incentives for personnel, procurement practices or lobbying activities where human rights are at stake. A Board committee is often the best placed to ensure such coordination.

Why is this important?

Signals from and attention to human rights issues by the Board indicates that top management considers respect for human rights to be a minimum standard for conducting business with legitimacy.
A.1 Policy Commitments

A.1.1 Commitment to respect human rights

Sources: UNGP 11 and 12, UNGPRF A1; GRI G4-DMAb

The Company publicly commits to respecting human rights across its activities. It must be clear the commitment relates to all internationally recognised human rights, rather than to only one or more selected human rights. This only considers commitments to avoid adverse human rights impacts and does not include philanthropic commitments.

Note: Additional industry-specific commitments are considered in A.1.3

Score 1

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respect human rights OR the ten principles of the UN Global Compact (principles 1 and 2 include a commitment to respect human rights) OR the rights under the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) OR the International Bill of Human Rights.

Score 2

The Company’s publicly available statement of policy also commits it to the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights OR the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises.

A.1.2 Commitment to respect the human rights of workers

Sources: UNGP 12 and 16(c), UNGPRF A1 and GRI G4-DMAb

The Company publicly commits to respecting the principles concerning fundamental rights at work in the eight ILO core conventions as set out in the Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work (see Figure 14), together with those human rights of workers that are particularly relevant to its industry. It also has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respect the human rights of workers in its business relationships.

Score 1

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting the human rights that the ILO has declared to be fundamental rights at work OR the Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting the ten principles of the UN Global Compact (principles 3 to 6 are based on the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work).

Score 2

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting the human rights that the ILO has declared to be fundamental rights at work. This includes the commitment to explicitly respecting each of the fundamental rights as set out in the Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work or also referred to as the ILO core labour standards (i.e. the elimination of forced or compulsory labour, the abolition of child labour, the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation and both freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining) AND its publicly available statement of policy also commits it to respecting the health and safety of workers.

A.1.3 Commitment to respect human rights particularly relevant to the industry and supply chain

Agricultural Products

Sources: UNGP 12, UNGPRF A1.2; GRI G4-DMAb

The Company publicly commits to respecting, and ensures that the business relationships in its supply chain respect, the human rights of particular relevance to communities’ livelihoods and health, including the right to water and the ownership or use of land and natural resources.

Score 1

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting ownership/use of land and natural resources OR the Company commits to respecting the right to water. In addition, the Company’s policy commitment(s) also expects its suppliers make these commitments.

Score 2

The Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting ownership/use of land and natural resources includes a commitment to recognise and respect legitimate tenure rights related to the ownership and use of land as set out in the relevant part(s) of the Voluntary Guidelines on Responsible Governance of Tenure or of the IFC Performance Standards or to obtain the free prior and informed consent (FPIC) from indigenous peoples and local communities for transaction involving land and natural resources or to a zero tolerance for land grabbing AND the Company commits to respecting the right to water. In addition, Company’s policy commitment(s) also expects its suppliers make these commitments.

Agricultural Products

Sources: UNGP 12, UNGPRF A1.2, GRI G4-DMAb

The Company publicly commits to respecting human rights and ensures that the business relationships in its supply chain respect the human rights of individuals belonging to specific groups or populations that require particular attention (for example, women, children, indigenous peoples, minorities, persons with disabilities, or migrant workers and their families – see Figure 15), where they may be at heightened risk of becoming vulnerable or marginalised if adversely impacted by the Company’s activities or its business relationships.

Note: Non-discrimination commitments are included under A.1.2 and not considered in this indicator.

Score 1

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting women’s rights OR to respecting children’s rights OR to respecting the rights of migrant workers.

Score 2

The Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting women’s rights refers to the relevant part(s) of the Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women or of the Women’s Empowerment Principles.

Measurement Theme A - Governance and Policy Commitments
In addition, the Company’s policy commitment(s) also expects its suppliers to make these commitments.

OR the Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting children’s rights refers to the relevant part(s) of the Convention on the Rights of the Child or of the Children’s Rights and Business Principles OR the Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting migrant workers’ rights refers to the relevant part(s) of the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families.

The Company also has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting the right to water.

AND the Company’s policy commitment(s) also expects its suppliers to make these commitments.

The ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work covers the following four fundamental principles and rights at work, laid out in eight conventions:

- Freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining (Convention No. 87 & No. 98)
- Elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labour (Convention No. 29 & No. 105)
- Effective abolition of child labour (Convention No. 138 & No. 182)
- Elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation (Convention No. 100 & No. 111)

- Working Hours (Conventions 1, 14 & 106)

A.1.3 Commitment to respect human rights particularly relevant to the industry (Apparel)

Sources: UNGP 12; UNGPRF A1.2; GRI G4-DMAb

The Company publicly commits to respecting human rights and ensures that the business relationships in its supply chain respect the human rights of individuals belonging to specific groups or populations that require particular attention (for example, women, children, indigenous peoples, minorities, persons with disabilities, or migrant workers and their families – see Figure 16), where they may be at heightened risk of becoming vulnerable or marginalised if adversely impacted by the Company’s activities or its business relationships.

Note: Non-discrimination commitments are included under A.1.2 and not considered in this indicator.

Score 1

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting women’s rights OR the Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting children’s rights OR the Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting indigenous peoples rights OR the Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting migrant workers’ rights.

In addition, the Company’s policy commitment(s) also expects its suppliers to make these commitments.

Score 2

The Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting women’s rights refers to the relevant part(s) of the Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women or of the Women’s Empowerment Principles OR the Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting children’s rights refers to the relevant part(s) of the Convention on the Rights of the Child or of the Children’s Rights and Business Principles OR the Company’s publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting migrant workers’ rights refers to the relevant part(s) of the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families.

The Company also has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting the right to water.

AND the Company’s policy commitment(s) also expects its suppliers to make these commitments.

Figure 15: Key international human rights instruments protecting the rights of individuals/groups that may require particular attention

International conventions protecting the rights of individuals who may be affected by a company’s activities include but are not limited to:

- United Nations (UN) Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW), 1979
- UN Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC), 1989
- UN Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination (CERD), 1965
- International Labour Organization (ILO) Convention 107, Indigenous and Tribal Populations Convention, 1957
- ILO Convention 169, Indegenous and Tribal Peoples Convention, 1991
- UN Declaration of the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP), 2007

A.1.4 Commitment to engage with stakeholders

Sources: UNGP 12 and 18b, UNGPRF C2

The Company publicly commits to engage with its stakeholders, including potentially and actually affected stakeholders and their legitimate representatives.

Score 1

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to engage with its potentially and actually affected stakeholders, including in local communities where relevant OR there is evidence that the company regularly engages with potentially and actually affected stakeholders.

Note: Engagement with potentially and actually affected stakeholders means engaging in a dialogue with the stakeholders who might be, or are, impacted by the company’s activities or with their legitimate representatives. Depending on the nature of the company’s operations, this can include (but is not limited to) workers, their families, local communities and any other person or group of people whose life and environment might be impacted. Evidence of engagement in the last two years will count as evidence of regular engagement.

Score 2

The Company’s publicly available statement of policy also commits it to engaging with affected stakeholders and their legitimate representatives in the development or monitoring of its human rights approach OR there is evidence that the company regularly engages with affected stakeholders and their legitimate representatives in the development or monitoring of its human rights approach.

A.1.5 Commitment to Remedy

Sources: UNGP 22, UNGPRF C6

The Company publicly commits to providing fair or cooperating in remediation for affected individuals, workers and communities through legitimate processes (including judicial and non-judicial mechanisms, as appropriate), where it identifies that it has caused or contributed to adverse impacts.

Score 1

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to remedy the adverse impacts on individuals, workers and communities that it has caused or contributed to.

Score 2

The commitment also recognises this should not obstruct access to other remedies or includes collaborating in initiatives that provide access to remedy. AND the commitment also includes working with business relationships to remedy adverse impacts which are directly linked to its operations, products or services through the business relationship’s own mechanisms or through collaborating with those business relationships on the development of third party non-judicial remedies.

Lock Score 2

The commitment also includes working with its suppliers to remedy adverse impacts.

The commitment also includes working with its suppliers to remedy adverse impacts.

The commitment also includes working with its extractive business partners.

A.1.6 Commitment to respect the rights of human rights defenders

Sources: UNGP 12, UNGPRF A1.2

The Company publicly commits to not tolerating threats, intimidation, physical or legal attacks against human rights defenders, including those exercising their rights to freedom of expression, association, peaceful assembly and protest against the business or its operations. (See also Indicator C.5)

Score 1

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to neither tolerate nor contribute to threats, intimidation and attacks (both physical and legal) against human rights defenders in relation to its operations.

Score 2

The Company also meets the requirements under the industry lock below.

Lock Score 2

The Company’s policy commitment(s) also expects its suppliers to make these commitments.

The Company’s policy commitment(s) also expects its suppliers to make these commitments.

The Company’s policy commitment(s) also expects its extractive business partners to make these commitments.

A.2 Board Level Accountability

A.2.1 Commitment from the top

Sources: UNGP 16(a), UNGPRF A1.1 and A2; GRI G4-42

The Company’s human rights policy commitments are approved and communicated at Board level and a Board member or Board committee is tasked with addressing one or more areas of respect for human rights.

Note: Management level responsibility is assessed under indicator B.2.1 and therefore not considered in this indicator.

Score 1

The Company’s human rights policy commitments are approved by the Board or the CEO by name AND a Board member or Board committee is tasked with specific governance oversight of one or more areas of respect for human rights.

Score 2

Board members or the CEO make speeches, presentations or other communications setting out the Company’s approach to human rights or discussing its business importance.

A.2.2 Board discussions

Sources: UNGP 16 and 24, UNGPRF A2.2 GRI G4-34

The Company has processes in place to discuss and address human rights issues at Board level or the Board or a Board committee regularly reviews the Company’s salient human rights issues and provides examples of what was discussed.
The Company provides incentives to the Board linked to the implementation of its human rights policy commitments or targets.

A.2.3 Incentives and Performance Management

Score 1

The Company indicates that at least one Board member has an incentive or performance management scheme linked to an aspect of the Company’s human rights policy commitment(s). If the Company has linked its incentive scheme to only one aspect of its human rights policy commitment(s), this aspect is one of the Company’s key industry risks.

Score 2

The criteria linking Board remuneration to human rights performance is also made public.

Score 1

The aspect linked to the incentive scheme covers at least one of the key industry risks in Figure 5 considered salient. If health and safety is the only issue for which there is a performance incentive, it includes the health and safety of local communities or workers in the supply chain.

Measurement Theme B - Embedding Respect and Human Rights Due Diligence

This Measurement Theme assesses the extent of a company’s systems and processes established to implement the company’s policy commitments in practice. It includes two related sub-themes:

Embedding: These indicators seek to assess how the company’s human rights policy commitments are embedded in company culture and across its management systems and day-to-day activities, including within the management systems covering their business relationships.

Human rights due diligence: These indicators focus on the specific systems the company has in place to ensure that due diligence processes are implemented to assess the real-time risks to human rights that the company poses, to integrate and act on these findings so as to prevent and mitigate the impacts, and to track and communicate those actions. These indicators are aligned to the human rights due diligence steps in the UN Guiding Principles on Business & Human Rights.

Note: These systems / processes described may be dedicated to addressing human rights or they may be integrated into wider systems for managing risks and impacts, provided the systems address risks and impacts to people and not just risks to the Company.
B Embedding Respect and Human Rights Due Diligence (25%)

These sub-themes are broken down into the following indicators and weightings:

B.1 Embedding respect for human rights in company culture and management systems (10%)
  B.1.1 Responsibility and resources for day-to-day human rights functions
  B.1.2 Incentives and performance management
  B.1.3 Integration with enterprise risk management
  B.1.4 Communication/dissemination of policy commitment(s)
    B.1.4.a Communication/dissemination of policy commitment(s) within Company’s own operations
    B.1.4.b Communication/dissemination of policy commitment(s) to business relationships
  B.1.5 Training on human rights
  B.1.6 Monitoring and corrective actions
  B.1.7 Engaging business relationships
  B.1.8 Approach to engagement with potentially affected stakeholders

B.2 Human rights due diligence (15%)
  B.2.1 Identifying: Processes and triggers for identifying human rights risks and impacts
  B.2.2 Assessing: Assessment of risks and impacts identified (salient risks and key industry risks)
  B.2.3 Integrating and Acting: Integrating assessment findings internally and taking appropriate action
  B.2.4 Tracking: Monitoring and evaluating the effectiveness of actions to respond to human rights risks and impacts
  B.2.5 Communicating: Accounting for how human rights impacts are addressed

Embedding Respect for Human Rights in Company Culture and Management Systems

What do the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights expect?

The company’s statement(s) of commitment should be publicly available in prominent locations and communicated actively to workers, business relationships and others, including investors and stakeholders, so that they are aware of the company’s commitments and integrate the commitment into company culture.

Companies should align the policies and procedures that govern their wider business activities and relationships with their human rights commitments and integrate the commitment into company culture.

Why is this Important?

These steps of embedding policy commitments into company culture and broader management systems and reinforcing them with specific due diligence processes ensures that a company takes a systematic and proactive, rather than ad hoc or reactive approach, to respecting human rights.

Human Rights Due Diligence

Human rights due diligence is a fundamental expectation of the UNGPs and the ‘knowing and showing’ of this due diligence process can be explained via the following 4 steps:

1. Identifying and Assessing

What do the UN Guiding Principles expect?

Companies should identify and assess any negative impacts on human rights with which they may be involved. This includes actual impacts (past or current) and potential impacts (those possible in the future—also referred to as human rights risks), from the company’s own activities and from its business relationships, direct relationships and those one or more steps removed. The focus must be on risks to the human rights of people, as distinct from risks to the business itself, although the two are increasingly related.

Why do the UN Guiding Principles expect?

1. Identifying: Processes and triggers for identifying human rights risks and impacts
2. Assessing: Assessment of risks and impacts identified (salient risks and key industry risks)
3. Tracking: Monitoring and evaluating the effectiveness of actions to respond to human rights risks and impacts
4. Communicating: Accounting for how human rights impacts are addressed

2. Integrating & Acting

What do the UN Guiding Principles expect?

To address negative human rights impacts, businesses should integrate the findings from their impact assessments across relevant internal functions and processes, act to prevent and mitigate the impacts identified, and have the internal decision-making, budget allocation and oversight processes in place to enable effective responses.

Why is this Important?

Through the process of “integration” a company can take the findings from its assessment of impacts, identify who in the company needs to be involved in addressing them, and work with them to decide on an effective response.

It is through the actions it takes to prevent or mitigate impacts that the company actually reduces its impacts on people, which is central to achieving respect for human rights.

3. Tracking

What do the UN Guiding Principles expect?

Companies need to track their responses to actual and potential human rights impacts to evaluate how effectively they are being addressed. Tracking should be based on appropriate qualitative and quantitative indicators and draw on internal and external feedback, including from affected stakeholders.

Why is this Important?

Tracking how well the company is managing its human rights risks is the only way the company can really know it is respecting human rights in practice. Tracking is a crucial dimension of continuous improvement -- it helps the company identify trends and patterns; it highlights recurring problems that may require more systemic changes to policies or processes, as well as good practices that can be shared across the company. Tracking is also essential for the company to be able to communicate accurately to all its stakeholders about what it is doing to meet its responsibility to respect human rights.

4. Communicating

What do the UN Guiding Principles expect?

Companies need to be prepared to communicate externally in order to account for how they address their impacts, particularly when concerns are raised by, or on behalf of, affected stakeholders. Companies that may have severe human rights impacts should report formally on how they address them.

Why is this Important?

It is by knowing and showing that they respect human rights in practice that companies build trust in their performance, demonstrate their reliability as partners, and gain a sustainable “social license to operate”. More widely, it is part of being accountable for how they do business, not least to those who may be impacted. Increasingly, shareholders, governments, potential business relationships, stock exchanges and civil society stakeholders also expect companies to provide information on their human rights performance.
Key Industry risks - The risks commonly regarded as potentially severe and/or likely within the industry and that companies are expected to demonstrate, through a process of human rights due diligence, how they are preventing them or why they are not relevant. Therefore, while these risks are anticipated to be relevant given the company’s industry, they may not necessarily be the individual company’s most salient human rights issues. These may change over time.

Salient human rights issues - Those human rights that are at risk of the most severe negative impacts through a company’s activities or business relationships. They therefore vary from company to company, and over time.

Materiality - Refers to what is really important or has great consequences, and the various definitions of materiality take differing views depending on who is asking and for what purpose. For company public reporting, materiality often refers to a threshold used to determine what information a company will disclose in its formal reporting. Definitions of what constitutes that threshold vary considerably.

B.1. Embedding Respect for Human Rights in Company Culture and Management Systems

Key Concepts

B.1.1 Responsibility and resources for day-to-day human rights functions

The Company outlines senior level responsibility for human rights within the Company as well as the organisation of the day-to-day responsibility for human rights across relevant internal functions.

Note: Board level responsibility is assessed under indicator A.2.1 and therefore not considered in this indicator.

B.1.2 Incentives and performance management

The Company provides incentives to senior managers linked to implementation of the Company’s human rights policy commitments or targets.

Score 1

The Company indicates that it has an incentive or performance management scheme linked to aspects of its human rights policy commitment(s) for at least one senior manager.

The criteria linking the senior manager(s)’ remuneration to the Company’s human rights performance is also made public.

Lock Score 1

This includes senior managers or senior procurement managers and covers at least one of the key industry risks in Figure 5 considered salient. If health and safety is the only issue for which there is a performance incentive, it includes the health and safety of local communities or workers in the supply chain.

B.1.3 Integration with enterprise risk management

The Company integrates attention to human rights risks into its broader enterprise risk management system(s).

Score 1

The Company describes how attention to human rights risks is integrated as part of its broader enterprise risk management systems.

Score 2

The Company also describes how the Board Audit Committee or an independent assessment was carried out of the adequacy of the enterprise risk management systems in managing human rights during the Company’s last reporting year.

B.1.4a Communication/dissemination of policy commitment(s) within Company’s own operations

The Company communicates its human rights policy commitment(s) to employees and other workers as well as to external stakeholders, in particular potentially affected stakeholders.

Sources: UNGP 12 and 16(d); UNGPRF A.1.3

B.1.4b Communication/dissemination of policy commitment(s) to business relationships

The Company communicates its human rights policy commitment(s) to its business relationships. In addition, it reflects its human rights commitments within the terms of its contracts (or other equivalent, binding arrangements) with business relationships. (See also Indicator B.1.7).

Score 1

The Company describes the steps it takes to communicate its human rights policy commitment(s) to its business relationships.

Score 2

The Company also describes how it communicates its policy commitments to stakeholders, including local communities and potentially affected stakeholders AND the Company provides an example of how it ensures the form and frequency of the information communicated is accessible to its intended audience.

Note: In order to get any Score under this indicator, the human rights policy commitment must include the ILO core labour standards at a minimum. If a company clearly commits to the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, this will be accepted as including the four ILO core labour standards. If a company commits to the UN Global Compact alone, this will not count as including the ILO core labour standards unless the company chooses to list out each of the UN Global Compact principles. This is because for communication, training, and monitoring purposes, clarity of message is important. If in doing so a company only explicitly refers to less than all four UN Global Compact labour rights principles then this will not meet the requirement to score 1 or 2 for these indicators.

Score 1

The Company describes how it communicates its policy commitment(s) to all workers, including local languages where necessary.

Score 2

The Company also describes how it communicates its policy commitments to stakeholders, including local communities and potentially affected stakeholders AND the Company describes the steps it takes to communicate its human rights policy commitment(s) to its business relationships.

Note 1: In order to get any Score under this indicator, the human rights policy commitment must include the ILO core labour standards at a minimum. (See full note at B.1.4.a above.)

Note 2: Indicators B.1.6 and B.2.3 are related but focus on different dimensions of a company’s actions: B.1.6 (which is in section B.1 on management systems) is about the Company’s systemic approach to ongoing monitoring and follow up on policy implementation whilst B.2.3 (which is in section B.2 on Human Rights Due Diligence) is about a specific step in the human rights due diligence process in addressing salient (or other) human rights impacts.

B.1.8 Approach to engagement with potentially affected stakeholders

The Company has an approach to engaging with affected stakeholders on a regular basis. In doing so, it identifies affected and potentially affected stakeholders and engages in regular dialogue on human rights issues with them and organisations representing them. It also pays particular attention to those at heightened risk of vulnerability or marginalisation and prohibits bribes or other favours that may divide communities. To facilitate informed engagement, the Company provides meaningful information in accessible formats and languages.

Score 1

The Company describes how it has identified, and engaged with affected and potentially affected stakeholders in the last two years AND it describes the frequency and triggers for engagement on human rights issues (for example by type or by stakeholder group).

Score 2

The Company also provides a summary analysis of the input/views given by the stakeholders on human rights issues and how the Company took those views into account.

B.2. Human rights due diligence

B.2.1 Identifying: Processes and triggers for identifying human rights risks and impacts

The Company proactively assesses its human rights risks and impacts on an on-going basis, including when these are triggered by key moments of the Company’s activities (e.g. policy change, market entry, new projects, amongst others).

Score 1

The Company describes the process(es) to identify its human rights risks and impacts in specific locations or activities, covering its own operations (i.e. impacts that it may cause or contribute to) as well as through relevant business relationships.

Score 2

The Company also describes the global systems in place to identify its human rights risks and impacts on a regular basis across its activities, in consultation with affected or potentially affected stakeholders and internal or independent external human rights experts. This includes how the systems are triggered by new country operations, new business relationships or changes in the human rights context in particular locations.

Sources:
UNGP 17 and 18; UNGPRF B2 and C3; HRIB, 1.2.1; GRI, G4-HR9, G4-HR11 and G4-LA15

Note: If a company has a clear global system of the type described in the criteria, then it can be assumed that it operates in each particular location. As such, by complying with all criteria in score 2, a company is automatically assumed to have achieved a score 1.

B.2.2 Assessing: Assessment of risks and impacts identified (salient risks and key industry risks)

Having identified its human rights risks and impacts, the Company assesses them and then prioritises its salient human rights risks and impacts.

Score 1

The Company describes its process(es) for assessing its human rights risks and what it considers to be its salient human rights issues. This description includes how relevant factors are taken into account, such as geographical, economic, social and other factors OR publicly discloses the results of the assessments, which may be aggregated across its operations and locations.

Score 2

The Company meets both the requirements under Score 1.

This Measurement Theme focuses on the extent to which a Company provides remedy in addressing actual adverse impacts on human rights. It covers a Company’s approach to providing or cooperating in remediation when human rights harms – actual human rights impacts – have occurred. The indicators aim to assess the extent to which a Company has appropriate processes in place so that grievances may be addressed early and remediated directly where appropriate. The indicators also test the Company’s willingness to participate in other remedy options and its approach to litigation concerning credible allegations of human rights impacts.

Theme C is divided into seven indicators. C.3 and C.7 have double weighting, while the others have single weighting (representing 22.2% or 11.1% of the total available score respectively):

- C.1 Grievance channels/mechanisms to receive complaints or concerns from workers (11%)
- C.2 Grievance channels/mechanisms to receive complaints or concerns from external individuals and communities (11%)
- C.3 Users are involved in the design and performance of the channel(s/mechanism(s) (22%)
- C.4 Procedures related to the mechanism(s/channel(s) are publicly available and explained (11%)
- C.5 Commitment to non-retaliation over concerns/complaints made (11%)
- C.6 Company involvement with State-based judicial and non-judicial grievance mechanisms (11%)
- C.7 Remediating adverse impacts and incorporating lessons learned (22%)
Remedies and Grievance Mechanisms (15%)

What do the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights expect?

- Where a company identifies that it has caused or contributed to negative human rights impacts, it should provide for or cooperate in their remediation through legitimate processes.
- Companies should establish or participate in effective operational-level grievance mechanisms for stakeholders who may be negatively impacted by their activities.
- Remediation processes provided by the state or third-party institutions can provide alternative channels for affected stakeholders to raise complaints or concerns. Complainants should be free to choose which available channels they wish to use.

Why is this important?

- Access to effective remedy is a human right in itself and therefore a core part of respecting human rights.
- Unless a company actively engages in the remediation of impacts it has caused or contributed to, it cannot fully meet its responsibility to respect human rights.
- Negative impacts may occur despite a company’s best efforts, given the complexity of activities and business relationships involved. Companies need to be prepared for this situation they can respond quickly and effectively.
- Strong remediation processes can help prevent impacts or conflicts from increasing or escalating.

Note: See also Indicator A.1.5 on policy commitments concerning remedy and Indicator A.1.6 on policy commitments concerning human rights defenders.

Key concepts - Remediation

Remediation/remedy refers to both the process of providing remedy for a negative human rights impact and the substantive outcomes that can counteract, or make good, the negative impact. These outcomes may take a range of forms such as apologies, restitution, rehabilitation, financial or non-financial compensation, and punitive sanctions (whether criminal or administrative, such as fines), as well as the prevention of harm through, for example, injunctions or guarantees of non-repetition.

C.1 Grievance channel(s)/mechanism(s) to receive complaints or concerns from workers

Sources: UNGP 22, 29 and 30, UNGPRF C6.1 and C6.3, GRI G4-DMA b

The Company has one or more channel(s)/mechanism(s) (its own, third party or shared) through which workers can raise complaints or concerns, including in relation to human rights issues. The channel(s)/mechanism(s) is available to all workers and takes into account accessibility by marginalised groups. The channel(s)/mechanism(s) is not used to undermine the role of legitimate trade unions in addressing labour-related disputes, nor to preclude access to judicial or other non-judicial grievance mechanisms.

Score 1
The Company indicates that it has one or more channel(s)/mechanism(s), or participates in a shared mechanism, accessible to all workers to raise complaints or concerns related to the Company. An explicit reference to human rights is not required, but a channel/mechanism that is specifically designed to cover other topics (e.g. a corruption hotline) will need to make clear to stakeholders that it can be used for human rights concerns as well.

Score 2
The Company also discloses data about the practical operation of the channel(s)/mechanism(s), including the number of grievances about human rights issues filed, addressed or resolved AND indicates that the channel(s)/mechanism(s) is available in all appropriate languages.

Lock Score 2 - the Company also expects its suppliers to establish a channel/mechanism for workers to raise complaints or concerns related to the supplier or their operations and to convey the same expectation to their suppliers OR those workers have access to the Company’s own channel(s)/mechanism(s) to raise complaints or concerns about the Company’s suppliers.

Lock Score 2 - the Company also expects its suppliers to establish a channel/mechanism for workers to raise complaints or concerns related to the supplier or their operations and to convey the same expectation to their suppliers OR those workers have access to the Company’s own channel(s)/mechanism(s) to raise complaints or concerns about the Company’s suppliers.

Lock Score 2 - the Company also expects its extractive business partners to establish a channel/mechanism for workers to raise complaints or concerns related to the extractives business partner or their operations and to convey the same expectations to their extractive business partners OR those workers have access to the Company’s own channel(s)/mechanism(s) to raise complaints or concerns about the Company’s extractive business partners or their operations.

C.2 Grievance channel(s)/mechanism(s) to receive complaints or concerns from external individuals and communities

Sources: UNGP 22, 29 and 30, UNGPRF C6.1 and C6.3, GRI G4-DMA b

The Company has one or more channel(s)/mechanism(s) (its own, third party or shared) through which individuals and communities who may be adversely impacted by the Company can raise complaints or concerns, including in relation to human rights issues.

Score 1
The Company indicates that it has one or more channel(s)/mechanism(s), or participates in a shared mechanism, accessible to all external individuals and communities who may be impacted by the Company.

Score 2
The Company describes how it ensures the channel(s)/mechanism(s) is accessible to all potentially affected external stakeholders at all operations, including in local languages.

The Company prohibits retaliation for raising complaints or concerns, including in relation to human rights issues.

Score 1
The Company indicates that it prohibits retaliation against workers and other stakeholders (including those that represent them) for raising human rights related complaints or concerns and describes the measures in place to prevent retaliation (for example, through guaranteeing anonymity when complaints or concerns are raised).

Score 2
The Company indicates that it has never brought a retaliatory suit against persons who have brought or tried to bring a case against it involving an allegation of adverse human rights impacts or against the lawyers representing them (retaliatory civil litigation, including for defamation, filing criminal complaints, or any similar actions against claimants or their lawyers), or fired any workers who have brought or tried to bring a case against it involving an allegation of human rights abuse, or engaged in violent acts or threats to the livelihoods, careers or reputation of claimants or their lawyers.

Lock Score 2
- if the company expects its extractive business partners to set up their own channel/mechanism under C.1 or C.2, it also expects them to consult potential or actual users on the design, implementation or performance of their channel/mechanism. If the Company’s own channel(s)/mechanism(s) are available for workers, external individuals and communities in its extractive business partners, it also engages with those potential or actual users on the design, implementation or performance of their channel(s)/mechanism(s).
Lock Score 2: If the company expects its suppliers to set up their own channel/mechanism under C.1 or C.2, it also expects them to prohibit retaliation against workers and other stakeholders (including those that represent them) for raising human rights related concerns.

C.6 Company involvement with State-based judicial and non-judicial grievance mechanisms

Sources: UNGPRF C.6

The Company does not impede access to state-based judicial or non-judicial mechanisms or other mechanisms (such as international mechanisms) for persons who make allegations of adverse human rights impacts and it operates on the presumption that it will not require individuals permanently to waive their legal rights to bring a claim through a judicial process as a condition of participation in a grievance/mediation process. It also does not impede access by competent authorities investigating and adjudicating credible allegations of human rights impacts. It participates in non-judicial grievance mechanisms provided by the state where these are available to resolve grievances.

Score 1

The Company publicly commits to not impeding access to state-based judicial or non-judicial mechanisms or other available mechanisms for persons who make allegations of adverse human rights impacts AND indicates that it does not, and that it has not in any past case, required(d) affected individuals or communities participating in a grievance/mediation process permanently to waive their legal rights to bring a claim through a judicial process as a condition of participating in the grievance/mediation process.

Score 2

The Company also sets out the process by which it will cooperate with state-based non-judicial grievance mechanism complaints brought against it AND provides an example of issues resolved (if applicable).

C.7 Remedying adverse impacts and incorporating lessons learned

Sources: UNGP 19, 22 and 37; UNGPRF C.6, C.6.4 and C.6.5; GRI, G4-LA16, G4-HR12 and G4-SO2 and G4-SO11

The Company provides for or cooperates in remediation to victims where it has identified that it has caused or contributed to adverse human rights impacts (or others have brought such information to the company’s attention, such as through its grievance channel(s/mechanism(s)). It also incorporates the lessons learned from remediation approaches into its channel(s/mechanism(s) and processes to prevent future impacts.

Score 1

For adverse human rights impacts which it has caused or to which it has contributed, the Company describes the approach it took to provide or enable a timely remedy for victims (or if none, then it describes the approach it would take).

Score 2

For adverse human rights impacts which it has caused or to which it has contributed, the Company also describes changes to systems and procedures to prevent similar adverse impacts in the future (or if none, then it describes the approach it would take) AND the Company provides an evaluation of the effectiveness of the grievance channel(s/mechanism(s).
Performance: Company Human Rights Practices

This Measurement Theme focuses on selected human rights related practices specific to each industry. The indicators seek to assess the actual practices occurring within companies in order to implement key enabling factors and business processes and to prevent specific impacts on human rights particularly at risk of occurring given the industry in question.

Many of these interrelate with the other CHRB Measurement Themes and company approaches to policy commitments and governance, embedding respect for human rights in culture and management systems, undertaking human rights due diligence or implementing remediation processes.

However, these indicators aid the inter- and intra-comparative benefits of the Benchmark. Complemented with the CHRB performance indicators on Responses to Serious Allegations (Measurement Theme E), these indicators seek to achieve a more comprehensive overall proxy measure for the human rights performance of a company being benchmarked.

The indicators for the different industries are separated into D.1 (Agricultural Products), D.2 (Apparel) and D.3 (Extractives), with differing numbers of indicators per industry. However, each the Theme weighting remains 20% of the total score. D.1, D.2 and D.3’s indicators are listed on the following page.
D.1 Agricultural Products (20%)

There are 20 indicators for the Agricultural Products companies in Theme D, with a variety of single, half and quarter weightings. See Annex 2 for details on the individual weightings.

- D.1.1 Living wage
  - D.1.1.a Living wage (in own agricultural operations)
  - D.1.1.b Living wage (in the supply chain)
- D.1.2 Aligning purchasing decisions with human rights

Enabling Factors & Business Processes

D.1.1 Living wage

D.1.1.a Living wage (in own agricultural operations)

Sources: ICESCR, Art. 7; HRIB, B.2.2, ETI, S; BSCI, V. Fair Remuneration; SA8000, IV.B.1; GLWC

The Company pays all its workers a living wage, which is regularly reviewed and negotiated through collective bargaining with relevant trade unions where they are operating. There are numerous definitions of living wage but the core concept is to provide a decent standard of living for a worker and his or her family based on a regular work week not including overtime hours. A living wage is sufficient to cover food, water, clothing, transport, education, health care and other essential needs for workers and their entitled official dependents and provide some discretionary income. Workers also receive equal pay for equal work.

Score 1

The Company indicates its target timeframe for paying all workers a living wage AND the Company describes how it determines a living wage for the regions where it operates, which includes involvement of relevant trade unions.

Score 2

As well as describing how it determines a living wage for the regions where it operates, the Company indicates that it has achieved paying the living wage AND it regularly reviews its definition of the living wage including with relevant trade unions.

D.1.1.b Living wage (in the supply chain)

Sources: ICESCR, Art. 7; HRIB, B.2.2, ETI, S; FWF, S; BSCI, V. Fair Remuneration; SA8000, IV.B.1; GLWC

The Company ensures its suppliers pay their workers a living wage, which is regularly reviewed and negotiated through collective bargaining with relevant trade unions where they are operating. There are numerous definitions of living wage but the core concept is to provide a decent standard of living for a worker and his or her family based on a regular work week not including overtime hours. A living wage is sufficient to cover food, water, clothing, transport, education, health care and other essential needs for workers and their entitled official dependents and provide some discretionary income. Workers also receive equal pay for equal work.

Score 1

The Company includes living wage guidelines in its contractual arrangements with its suppliers or its supplier code of conduct OR the Company describes how it works with suppliers to improve their living wage practices.

Score 2

The Company meets both the requirements under Score 1 AND provides an analysis of trends in progress made.

D.1.2 Aligning purchasing decisions with human rights

Sources: UNGP 16, HRIB, B.1.1, FLA, IER 24

The Company ensures coherence between its purchasing policies and practices and its human rights commitments(s) so that such policies and practices do not undermine its human rights commitments or hinder the ability of its business relationships to meet the Company’s expectations and their own human rights responsibilities.

Note: Indicators D.1.2 and D.2.2 are related to indicator B.1.7 but focus on different aspects of human rights impacts in supply chains. D.1.2 and D.2.2 focus on how the company’s actions can impact human rights in the supply chain whilst B.1.7 is about how the supplier’s actions (should) influence the company’s acts.

D.1.3 Mapping and disclosing the supply chain

Sources: GRI G4-12

The Company maps its suppliers and discloses its mapping publicly.

Score 1

The Company indicates that it maps its suppliers, including direct and indirect suppliers, and describes how it goes about this. For the Agricultural Products industry, the mapping needs to include the product source (e.g. farm, fishery, ranch, etc.).

Score 2

The Company also discloses the mapping for the most significant parts of its supply chain and explains how it has defined what are the most significant parts of its supply chain.

D.1.4 Child labour

D.1.4.a Age verification and corrective actions (in own agricultural operations)

Sources: CRC, Art. 32; ILO, No. 138 & No. 182; CRBP; HRIB, B.3; FLA, IER 4, V. and CL 3-4; ETI, 4.2 and 4.4; FWF, 3; BSCI, V. No 2 Child Labour and Special Protections for Young Workers; SA8000, IV. 1.2; GRI G4-HR5

The Company verifies the age of job applicants and workers in its own operations. In addition, if the Company learns that it has child labour in its operations, it ensures that the children are enrolled in a remediation/education programme, rather than dismissing them from employment. If children are found to be involved in hazardous work, they are removed immediately from that situation and provided alternative work until they can be enrolled in or are immediately enrolled in a remediation/education programme. The objective is to ensure that children are not pushed into more dangerous survival strategies.

Score 1

The Company indicates that it does not use child labour AND verifies the age of job applicants and workers in its own operations.

Score 2

The Company also describes how it develops, participates in or contributes to programmes for transition from employment to education, enabling children to attend and remain in education, if and when child labour is found in its operations and to improve working conditions for young workers where relevant.
The Company ensures its suppliers verify the age of job applicants and workers. In addition, if the Company learns that it has child labour in its supply chain it ensures that the child/children are enrolled in a remediation/education programme, rather than dismissing them from employment. If children are found to be involved in hazardous work, they are removed immediately from the situation and provided alternative work until they can be enrolled in or are immediately enrolled in a remediation/education programme. The objective is to ensure that children are not pushed into more dangerous survival strategies.

D.1.5 Forced Labour

D.1.5.a Forced labour: Debt bondage and other unacceptable financial costs (in own agricultural operations)

The Company ensures its suppliers refrain from imposing any financial burdens on workers by withholding wages or expenses that should be covered by the Company, including recruitment fees and related recruitment costs.

Score 1

The Company indicates that it pays workers regularly, in full and on time and does not require workers to pay work related fees or costs AND indicates that all workers receive a payslip with their wages explaining any legitimate deductions.

Score 2

The Company also describes how it implements and monitors this practice in its own operations, particularly with employment agencies/labour brokers/recruitment intermediaries.

D.1.5.b Forced labour: Debt bondage and other unacceptable financial costs (in the supply chain)

The Company ensures its suppliers refrain from imposing any financial burdens on workers by withholding wages or expenses that should be covered by its suppliers, including recruitment fees and related recruitment costs.

Score 1

The Company includes debt bondage guidelines, including refraining from imposing any financial burdens on workers by withdrawing wages or expenses including recruitment fees and related recruitment costs, in its contractual arrangements with its suppliers or supplier code of conduct OR the Company describes how it works with suppliers to eliminate imposing any financial burdens on workers.

Score 2

The Company meets both of the requirements under Score 1 AND provides an analysis of trends in progress made.

D.1.6 Freedom of association and collective bargaining

D.1.6.a Freedom of association and collective bargaining (in own agricultural operations)

The Company respects the right of all workers to form and join a trade union of their choice and to bargain collectively. In addition, it provides workers’ representatives with appropriate facilities to assist in the development of effective collective bargaining agreement(s). The Company also prohibits intimidation, harassment, retaliation and violence against trade union members and trade union representatives.

Score 1

The Company commits to not interfering with the right of workers to form or join trade unions and to bargain collectively and puts in place measures to prohibit any form of intimidation or retaliation against workers seeking to exercise their rights.

Score 2

The Company meets both of the requirements under Score 1.
these rights OR discloses the percentage of its workforce whose terms and conditions of work are covered by collective bargaining agreements.

D.1.10 Women’s rights

D.1.10.a Women’s rights (in own agricultural operations)

The Company recognises the relevance of women’s rights for the industry, given the prevalence of women workers and the different dimensions of inequality they often face. The Company has measures in place to implement its policy commitment to eliminate discrimination against women through providing equal pay for equal work, and measures to ensure equal opportunities throughout all levels of employment, which may include setting up women’s committees that report to management to address and resolve issues. In addition, the Company ensures its suppliers have measures in place to eliminate health & safety concerns that are particularly prevalent among women workers and producers (e.g. sexual harassment and physical security).

Enabling Factors & Business Processes

D.2.1 Living wage

D.2.1.a Living wage (in own production or manufacturing operations)

The Company pays all its workers a living wage, which is regularly reviewed and negotiated through collective bargaining with relevant trade unions where they are operating. There are numerous definitions of living wage but the core concept is to provide a decent standard of living for a worker and his or her family based on a regular work week not including overtime hours. A living wage is sufficient to cover food, water, clothing, transport, education, health care and other essential needs for workers and their entitled official dependents and provide some discretionary income. Workers also receive equal pay for equal work.

D.2.1.b Living wage (in the supply chain)

Sources: ICESCR, Art. 7; HRIB, B.2.3; ETI, S; FWF, S; BSCI, V; For Remuneration: SA8000, IV.B.3; GLWC

The Company ensures its suppliers pay their workers a living wage, which is regularly reviewed and negotiated through collective bargaining with relevant trade unions where they are operating. There are numerous definitions of living wage but the core concept is to provide a decent standard of living for a worker and his or her family based on a regular work week not including overtime hours. A living wage is sufficient to cover food, water, clothing, transport, education, health care and other essential needs for workers and their entitled official dependents and provide some discretionary income. Workers also receive equal pay for equal work.

Score 1
The Company includes living wage guidelines in its contractual arrangements with its suppliers or its supplier code of conduct or the Company describes how it works with suppliers to improve their living wage practices.

Score 2
The Company meets both of the requirements under Score 1 AND provides an analysis of trends in progress made.

D.2.2 Aligning purchasing decisions with human rights

Sources: UNGP, 16; HRIB, B.1.1; ETI, I.ER.24

The Company ensures coherence between its purchasing policies and practices and its human rights commitment(s), so that such policies and practices do not undermine its human rights commitments or hinder the ability of its business relationships to meet the Company’s expectations and their own human rights responsibilities.

Note: Indicators D.1.2 and D.2.2 are related to indicator B.1.7 but focus on different aspects of human rights impacts in supply chains. D.1.2 and D.2.2 focus on how the company’s actions can impact human rights in the supply chain whilst B.1.7 is about how the suppliers’ actions (should) influence the company’s acts.

Score 1
The Company describes the practices it adopts to avoid price or short notice requirements or other business considerations undermining human rights or it describes the specific positive incentives it puts into place via its purchasing practices to encourage its business relationships to act with respect for human rights (e.g. price premiums, repeat business, increased orders or longer contracts with good performers).

Score 2
The Company meets both the requirements under Score 1.

D.2.3 Mapping and disclosing the supply chain

Sources: GRI G4-12

The Company maps its suppliers and discloses its mapping publicly.

Score 1
The Company indicates that it maps its suppliers, including direct and indirect suppliers, and describes how it goes about this. For the Apparel industry, the mapping needs to include all manufacturing sites.

Score 2
The Company also discloses the mapping for the most significant parts of its supply chain and explains how it has defined what are the most significant parts of its supply chain.

D.2.4 Child labour

Score 1
The Company indicates that it does not use child labour AND verifies the age of job applicants and workers in its own operations.

Score 2
The Company also describes how it develops, participates in or contributes to programmes for transition from employment to education, enabling children to attend and remain in education, if and when child labour is found in its operations and to improve working conditions for young workers where relevant.

Score 1
The Company ensures its suppliers verify the age of job applicants and workers. In addition, if the Company learns that it has child labour in its supply chain it ensures that the child/children are enrolled in a remediation/education programme, rather than dismissing them from employment. If children are found to be involved in hazardous work, they are removed immediately from the situation and provided alternative work until they can be enrolled in or are immediately enrolled in a remediation/education programme. The objective is to ensure that children are not pushed into more dangerous survival strategies.

Performance: Responses to Serious Allegations

This Measurement Theme focuses on responses to serious allegations of negative impacts a Company may be alleged or reported to be responsible for by an external source.

While previous Measurement Themes have focused on the specific policies, systems, processes, and practices the Company puts in place to proactively avoid adverse impacts, indicators in the Responses to Serious Allegations Measurement Theme seek to assess a Company’s response to an allegation that an impact has occurred. The Response to Serious Allegations Measurement Theme does not seek to assess the allegation itself.

Theme E is split into three indicators with weightings as follows:

- E.1 The Company has responded publicly to the allegation (5%)
- E.2 The Company has appropriate policies in place (5%)
- E.3 The Company has taken appropriate action (10%)
Which allegations will be included?

Recognising the need for companies to focus their resources on responding to severe and substantiated allegations, the following criteria will be applied to assess whether an allegation will be assessed under this Measurement Theme.

Severe impacts:
This Measurement Theme will cover allegations of severe human rights impacts. The commentary to UN Guiding Principle 14 states that “severity of impacts will be judged by their scale, scope and irremediable character”. The Interpretative Guide to the UN Guiding Principles provides additional information about severity. Severe negative impacts are defined in the Guiding Principles as those impacts that would be greatest in terms of:

- Scale: The gravity of the impact on the human right(s); and/or
- Scope: The number of individuals that are or could be affected; and/or
- Remediability: The ease with which those impacted could be restored to their prior enjoyment of the right(s).

Clear human rights link:
The types of alleged impacts covered will include but are not limited to the following (see Figure 17 on the next page):

- Child Labour
- Forced Labour
- Discrimination
- Freedom of Association and Collective Bargaining
- Working Hours
- Health and Safety
- Right to security of persons including freedom from torture, cruel inhuman or degrading treatment.
- Land rights including forced displacement
- Indigenous peoples rights
- Environmental damage leading to water, land or air harmful to human health or negative impacts on livelihoods.

Recent:
For the purpose of the 2018 assessment, allegations must have occurred between January 2015 and December 2017.

Allegations of impacts that have taken place before 2015 may be included if renewed allegations arise in connection with the original allegation (for example, about a failure to provide an effective remedy).

External source:
The indicators in this Measurement Theme are based on allegations from external sources such as print media, NGOs, news sites, governmental agencies, commentaries and social media. Only sources covered by Vigeo Eiris, BHRRC and RepRisk will be considered and each source will be shared with the Companies assessed. Sources mainly include multilateral organisations, trade unions and relevant NGOs. Analysts working for BHRRC, RepRisk and Vigeo Eiris regularly monitor email listings and search global press and NGO websites for information relating to alleged breaches and the Dow Jones’ Reuters Factiva service is used to source news articles. The allegations will be reviewed by these organisations and any duplicate allegations across the databases will be removed. Note that these will not consider companies’ self-reported impacts, which are dealt with in indicators under the other CHRB Measurement Themes.

Level of detail provided on the allegation:
Allegations must have enough detail to link the Company to the allegation, i.e. to put the Company’s responsibility into question if the facts were established. Such details can include specifications about specific operations or locations and specific details about the alleged impacts. A Company, or a joint venture or consortium (where the Company has an equity stake of 5% or more), must be specifically named in an allegation to be included.

Practical thresholds:
Outlined in Figure 17 are the indicative thresholds for including allegations in this Measurement Theme, relevant international standards and some examples to highlight the kinds of allegations that could qualify in practice.

Scoring

CHRB has recognised that the Pilot Methodology rule of awarding an automatic 20 points to companies where no serious allegations that met the CHRB threshold were identified did not account for the different socio-political contexts in which companies operate and the impact this can have on the number of allegations made against them. For example, companies that operate in countries where freedom of speech is limited and civil society less active are less likely to be called out for alleged human rights impacts than public-facing companies that operate in contexts where making human rights allegations is more common and safer.

For this reason, companies against which no serious allegations meeting the CHRB threshold are identified will no longer receive 20 points automatically.

The scoring will operate according to the following rules:

- Companies against which no serious allegations meeting the CHRB thresholds are identified will receive a score that is the average of their scores in other measurement themes.
- Where allegations are found that meet the threshold each allegation is scored across indicators E.1, E.2 and E.3 with a max of two points for each indicator. E.3 is double weighted. Therefore, the max score per allegation is 8 points. Where there are multiple allegations companies will be given an average score for all the allegations investigated.

Actual versus potential impacts

This Measurement Theme covers allegations of actual impacts; allegations regarding potential impacts that have a likelihood of occurring in the future will not be addressed in this Measurement Theme, but in other Measurement Themes of the Benchmark. Therefore, in the context of this Measurement Theme, ‘alleged’ refers to impacts that the company may or may not have acknowledged (i.e. denied that it occurred, or that it has caused or contributed to the impact).

Indicators for assessing a company’s response

E.1 The Company has responded publicly to the allegation

The Company has publicly responded to the allegation and provided further details.

Score 1

The Company has responded publicly to the allegation.

Note: This may be a response the Company has made public through a statement in a publicly accessible document on its website, in the press, through BHRRC, or through the CHRB Disclosure Platform.

Score 2

The Company has responded publicly and in detail to each aspect of the allegation.

Note: In case of on-going judicial process or if disclosing full details could have adverse impact on affected people, such details are not required to be disclosed publicly and will not affect obtaining a Score 2.

E.2 The Company has appropriate policies in place

The Company has policies in place related to the allegation to prevent the type of alleged impact from re-occurring.

Score 1

The Company has a publicly available statement of policy committing it to respecting the general human rights principle in question relevant to the impacts covered by the allegation AND the commitment is applicable to business relationships which may have contributed to or been linked to the alleged impact.

Score 2

The Company also has a policy that refers to the specific type of human rights issue in question.

Note: The policy can be part of a broader human rights policy as long as it provides details on the specific human rights issue in question.

E.3 The Company has taken appropriate action

The Company has taken appropriate action to address the alleged impacts.

Score 1

The company engages in a dialogue with the stakeholders reportedly affected in the allegation(s) (or if the Company is alleged to be directly linked, it encourages its business relationship to do so) AND the Company takes appropriate action depending on its ‘level of involvement’ (whether causing, contributing or directly linked - see ‘key concepts’ below) to address the identified impacts, including through providing remedy(ies) to the affected people or demonstrates an improvement in related management systems to prevent such impacts in the future.

Score 2

The Company also provides evidence that it provides remedy(ies) that are satisfactory to the victims AND provides evidence of having improved its management systems to prevent such impacts from occurring in future AND engages in dialogue.

If the company denies the allegation(s), it still engages in a dialogue with the stakeholders reportedly affected in the allegation(s) (or if the Company is alleged to be directly linked, it encourages its business relationship to do so) AND it provides evidence of having reviewed its management systems to prevent such impacts from occurring in the future.
CHRB has recognised that the Pilot Methodology approach to assessing transparency was overly burdensome and that the utility of the stand-alone section was not fully understood by many of the stakeholders interested in the Methodology. Theme F has been considerably revised to achieve the following aims:

- Continue to reward companies that demonstrate a willingness to disclose information (F.1)
- Continue to give credit to companies that use existing good practice reporting frameworks (F.2)
- Give credit to companies that meet criteria in specific indicators that represent high quality of disclosures (F.3)

Theme F is split into three indicators as follows:

- F.1 Company willingness to publish information (4%)
- F.2 Recognised Reporting Initiatives (2%)
- F.3 Key, high-quality disclosure (4%)
  - F.3.a Specificity and use of concrete examples
  - F.3.b Discussing challenges openly
  - F.3.c Demonstrating a forward focus
F.1 Company willingness to publish information

By introducing half marks (0.5, 1.5) into various points of the scoring criteria, CHRB will be able to identify where companies are not meeting all the requirements to reach a score of 1, but are disclosing relevant information on a topic. In the case of a half mark, a company is demonstrating a level of transparency, but is not necessarily reaching the required level of performance on that human rights topic to score a 1 on CHRB’s methodology.

F.1 looks at total overall disclosure to demonstrate transparency. F.1 looks at ‘high-quality’ disclosures and CHRB has selected several key indicators within the Methodology that show companies are willing to be transparent in certain areas that indicate high quality reporting on human rights performance. F.3 draws on the Shift Project’s publication Human Rights Reporting: Are Companies Telling Investors What They Need to Know? to identify criteria for the three F.3 sub-indicators.

F.1.1 Company disclosures (20%)

F.1 assesses the company’s willingness to publish information and gives credit to companies that disclose information regardless of whether that information meets all the CHRB requirements to achieve a point score.

F.2 Recognised Reporting Initiatives

The CHRB Methodology rewards companies that are reporting against existing, internationally recognised good-practice reporting frameworks. Where a company is reporting against either the UNGP Reporting Framework (UNGPRF), the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI) or the Sustainability Accounting Standards Board (SASB). Companies are willing to be transparent in certain areas that indicate high quality reporting on human rights performance. F.3 draws on the Shift Project’s publication Human Rights Reporting: Are Companies Telling Investors What They Need to Know? to identify criteria for the three F.3 sub-indicators.

F.2 looks at and rewards high-quality disclosures. CHRB has selected several key indicators within the Methodology that show companies are willing to be transparent in certain areas that indicate high quality reporting on human rights performance. F.3 draws on the Shift Project’s publication Human Rights Reporting: Are Companies Telling Investors What They Need to Know? to identify criteria for the three F.3 sub-indicators.

F.3 Key, high-quality disclosure

Whereas F.1 looks at total overall disclosure to demonstrate transparency, F.3 looks at ‘high-quality’ disclosures and CHRB has selected several key indicators within the Methodology that show companies are willing to be transparent in certain areas that indicate high quality reporting on human rights performance.

In order to identify whether a company reports against one or more of these frameworks, the CHRB will look for a clear statement that the company does so on its website or in relevant report(s).

F.3.a Specifying and use of concrete examples

The Company will receive 1 point (with a total maximum of 4 points for this subsection) for each of the following:

- Achieving a Score of 2 in A.2.3 Business Strategies and Performance (this means that the Company is disclosing examples of specific human rights issues that are discussed and/or examples of trends in type of human rights issues discussed at board level).
- Achieving a Score of 2 in B.1.2 – The Company is disclosing specific examples of corrective action processes in practice.
- Achieving a Score of 2 in C.1 Grievance channels/mechanisms to receive complaints from workers (this means that the Company is disclosing specific figures for human rights-related grievances).
- Achieving a Score of 2 in C.3 Users are involved in the design and performance of the grievance mechanism(s) (this means that the Company is disclosing examples where potential or actual users are involved in the design and performance review of specific mechanisms/processes).

F.3.b Discussing challenges openly

The Company will receive 1 point (with a total maximum of 2 points for this subsection) for each of the following:

- Achieving a Score of 2 in B.2.4 Tracking, Monitoring and Evaluating the effectiveness of actions to respond to human rights risks and impacts (this means that the Company is providing examples of lessons learned while tracking effectiveness of its actions regarding a salient human rights issue, which is an indication of challenges faced by the company).
- Achieving a Score of 2 in C.7 Remediating adverse impacts and incorporating lessons learned (this means that the Company provides an evaluation of the effectiveness of its grievance channel(s)/mechanism(s)).

F.3.c Demonstrating a forward focus

The Company will receive 1 point (with a total maximum of 4 points for this subsection) for each of the following:

- Achieving a Score of 2 in A.2.2 Board Discussions (this means that the Company is disclosing examples of senior board discussions regarding aspects of the company’s human rights performance, implying targets and planning).
- Achieving a Score of 2 in B.1.1 Strategic Planning and Governance (this means that the Company is disclosing criteria for senior manager remuneration that is linked to aspects of the company’s human rights performance, implying targets and planning).
- Achieving a Score of 1 in D.3.1 Living Wage (AG) / D.3.1 Living Wage (AP) / D.3.3 Living Wage (EX) (this means that the Company is disclosing specific targets for paying workers a living wage).
- Achieving a Score of 2 in D.1.7a Health and Safety (AG) / D.2.7a Health and Safety (AP) / D.3.4 Health and Safety (EX) (this means that the Company is disclosing examples of mechanisms of how it has met targets related to rates of injury, lost days and fatalities and whether it has met those targets in a timely manner).
The table below demonstrates how the scoring will work for section F.3 using a hypothetical example. For more detail on scoring rules, see Annex 2.

Annex 2 Further Guidance on the CHRB Scoring Rules

The tables below provide guidance on the CHRB scoring rules.

For every indicator, there is information on the possible scores available for that indicator and on the relative weight of that indicator within its measurement theme.

Half points are available in cases of multi-criteria indicators, where the company is asked to fulfil more than one requirement to get a full score of 1 or 2. Where this is the case, the indicator description will include an ‘AND’ in capital letters to separate those requirements. They must be distinguished from a lower case ‘and’ which merely introduce an additional idea within the same requirement (and do not therefore create a possibility to score a half-point). Where there are more than two requirements, the company can score half a point for any of those requirements but will need to fulfil all of them to obtain a full point.

Double-weighted indicators are highlighted in the weighting column.

For every measurement theme, there is information on the way point scores and percentage scores are calculated, and on the relative weight of that measurement theme in the total score.

Annex 4 Cross-reference table: CHRB and KnowtheChain

The KnowtheChain benchmarks look at forced labour in the supply chain of companies from the ICT, Food and Beverage and Apparel and Footwear sectors. As such, some of KnowtheChain’s assessment criteria overlap with some of CHRB’s in the Agricultural Products and Apparel sectors.

CHRB and KnowtheChain are aware of the burden placed on companies that have to deal with several benchmarks and reporting initiatives, and therefore strive to align their methodologies where possible. In order to help companies that are benchmarked by both CHRB and KnowtheChain to easily identify where this is the case, the table below indicates where there is an overlap between the CHRB and KnowtheChain methodologies by showing the CHRB and corresponding KnowtheChain indicators side by side.

In most cases the CHRB requirements for one given indicator are spread over several KnowtheChain indicators and vice versa, which is why several KnowtheChain indicators are matched with one CHRB indicator. In some cases the match is only partial, which means that the requirements are similar but not perfectly aligned. In those cases, disclosures that satisfy the requirements of one benchmark may satisfy the requirements of the other, but this will have to be checked on a case-by-case basis.

| B.1.4 Communication of policy commitments to business relationships | 1.2(5) “The company’s supply chain standard is communicated to the company’s suppliers.”
3.3(1) “The company integrates supply chain standards addressing forced labor and human trafficking into supplier contracts.”
3.4(1) “The company requires its first-tier suppliers to take steps to ensure that their own suppliers implement standards that are in-line with the company’s supply chain standards addressing forced labor and human trafficking.” |
| B.1.5 Training on human rights | [Partial match] 1.4(1) “The company undertakes programs which include the training of all relevant decision-makers within the company on risks, policies, and standards related to human trafficking and forced labor.” |
| B.1.6 Monitoring and corrective actions | [Partial match] 1.6(1) “Auditing Process - The company has a supplier audit process that includes:
1) non-scheduled visits;
2) review of relevant documents;” |

B.1.7 Engaging business relationships

[Partial match] 1.4(2) “The company undertakes programs which include the training and capacity building of suppliers on risks, policies, and standards related to human trafficking and forced labor, covering key supply chain contexts.”

B.1.8 Framework for engagement with potentially affected stakeholders

[Partial match] 5.1(1) “The company takes steps to ensure its policies and standards, which include human trafficking and forced labor, are available in the languages of its suppliers’ workers.”
[Partial match] 5.2(4) “The company provides at least two examples of worker engagement initiatives covering different supply chain contexts.”

B.2.1 Processes and triggers for identifying HR risks and impacts

2.1(1) “The company discloses details on how it conducts human rights supply chain risk or impact assessments that include forced labor risks or assessments that focus specifically on forced labor risks.”

C.1 Grievance channels/ mechanisms to receive complaints or concerns from workers

5.4(1) “The company takes steps to ensure a formal mechanism to report a grievance to an impartial entity regarding labor conditions in the company’s supply chain is available to its suppliers’ workers and relevant stakeholders.”

C.2 Grievance channels/ mechanisms to receive complaints or concerns from external individuals and communities

5.4(2) “The company takes steps to ensure that the existence of the mechanism is communicated to its suppliers’ workers.”
[Partial match] 5.4(4) “The company discloses data about the practical operation of the mechanism, such as the number of grievances filed, addressed, and resolved, or an evaluation of the effectiveness of the mechanism.”

C.3 Users are involved in the design and performance of the channels/mechanism(s)

5.4(3) “The company takes steps to ensure that workers or an independent third-party are involved in the design or performance of the mechanism, to ensure that its suppliers’ workers trust the mechanism.”

C.7 Remediating adverse impacts and incorporating lessons learnt

[Partial match] 7.2.1(1) “If no alleviation regarding forced labor in the company’s supply chain has been identified in the last three years, the company discloses a process for responding to the complaints and/or reported violations of policies and standards.”
[Partial match] 7.2.B(1) “If one or more allegations regarding forced labor in the company’s supply chain have been identified in the last three years, the company discloses a process for responding to the complaints and/or reported violations of policies and standards.”
[Partial match] 7.2.B(2) “If one or more allegations regarding forced labor in the company’s supply chain have been identified in the last three years, and the company denies the allegation, the company discloses a process for responding to the complaints and/or reported violations of policies and standards.”
Affected stakeholder - An individual whose human rights have been or may be affected by a company’s operations, products or services.

Business activities - Everything that a company does in the course of fulfilling the strategy, purpose, objectives and decisions of the business. This may include activities such as mergers and acquisitions, research and development, design, construction, production, distribution, purchasing, sales, provision of security, contracting, human resource activities, marketing, conduct of external/government relations including lobbying, engagement with stakeholders, relocation of communities, and social investment.

Business relationships - The relationships a company has with business partners, entities in its value chain and any other State or non-State entity directly linked to its operations, products or services. They include indirect relationships in its value chain, beyond the first tier, and minority as well as majority shareholderships in joint ventures.

Child labour and child work - Not all work done by children (defined as human beings below the age of 18) should be classified as child labour that is to be targeted for elimination. “Child labour” is a much narrower concept than “child work” and refers to children working in conditions of forced or compulsory labour. For children engaged in the worst forms of child labour (children being enslaved, forcibly recruited for armed conflict, prostituted, trafficked, forced into illegal activities or hazardous work which, by its nature or the circumstances in which it is carried out, is likely to harm the health, safety or morals of children). Civil Society Organisations (CSOs) - Non-State, not-for-profit, voluntary entities formed by people in the social sphere that are separate from the State and the market. CsOs represent a wide range of interests and ties. They can include community-based organisations as well as non-governmental organisations (NGOs). In the context of the CHRB, CsOs do not include businesses or for-profit associations.

Disclosure - All information released by a company for the purpose of informing shareholders or other stakeholders.

Embedding - The macro-level process of ensuring that a company’s responsibility to respect human rights is driven across the organisation, into its business values and culture. It requires that all personnel are aware of the company’s public commitment to respect human rights, understand its implications for how they conduct their work, are trained, empowered and incentivised to act in ways that support the commitment, and regard it as intrinsic to the core values of the workplace.

Effectiveness criteria - The UN Guiding Principle set out eight “effectiveness criteria” for non-judicial grievance mechanisms. They should be: legitimate, accessible, predictable, equitable, transparent, rights-compatible, based on dialogue and engagement, and a source of continuous learning. While these criteria mostly relate to the quality of processes, they include an important requirement that outcomes should be in line with internationally-recognised human rights. (See UN Guiding Principle 31).

Extractive business partners - Refers to operational level contractors (includes on-site and off-site contractors involved in operations such as arrangements or other similar operations off-site, contracted security providers, etc.) and joint ventures or similar contractual arrangements with multiple parties to carry out exploration and/or production.

Extractive operations - This term is used to cover exploration, development, production, decommissioning and closure, but not processing, refining, marketing or end-use of extractive resources. There are various terms in use in each oil & gas (upstream) and mining industries to describe these phases that involve the exploration for and extraction of resources.

Fundamental rights at work - are set out in and are often referred to as the ILO core labour standards and cover: (a) freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining; (b) the elimination of all forms of forced or compulsory labour; (c) the effective abolition of child labour; and (d) the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation (See ILO Declaration on the Fundamental Rights and Principles At Work).

Forced labour - Forced labour refers to situations in which persons are coerced to work through the use of violence or intimidation, or by more subtle means such as accumulated debt, retention of identity papers or threats of denunciation to immigration authorities. Forced labour, contemporary forms of slavery, debt bondage and human trafficking are closely related terms though not identical in a legal sense. Most situations of slavery or human trafficking are however covered by ILO’s definition of forced labour. (See ILO Forced Labour Convention, 1930 (No. 29) and Abolition of Forced Labour Convention, 1957 (No. 105)).

Free Prior and Informed Consent (FPIC) - FPIC is instrumental to the rights of participation and self-determination of indigenous peoples, and acts as a safeguard for all those rights of indigenous peoples that may be affected by external actors. The United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP) sets out circumstances when the FPIC shall be sought and when exceptions are permissible.

Human rights - Basic international standards aimed at securing dignity and equality for all. Every human being is entitled to enjoy them without discrimination. They include the rights contained in the International Bill of Human Rights (see below). They also include the principles concerning fundamental rights at work set out in the International Labour Organization’s Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work.

Human rights defender - A term used to describe people who, individually or with others, act to promote or protect human rights.

Human rights due diligence – An ongoing risk management process that a reasonable and prudent company needs to follow in order to identify, prevent, mitigate and account for how it addresses its adverse human rights impacts. As set out in the UN Guiding Principles 17-21, this includes four key steps: assessing actual and potential human rights impacts; integrating and acting on the findings; tracking responses; and communicating about how impacts are addressed.

Human rights impacts - A “negative human rights impact” or “human rights abuse” or “human rights harms” occur when an action removes or reduces the ability of an individual to enjoy his or her human rights. Human rights impacts can either have occurred or be on-going or be potential human rights impacts in the future, which are also referred to as human right risks (see below). The term “human rights violation” is used when governments are the source or cause of the harm.

Human rights risks - A company’s human rights risks are any risks that its operations may lead to one or more negative human rights impacts. They therefore relate to its potential human rights impacts. Importantly, a company’s human rights risks are the risks that its operations pose to human rights. This is separate from any risks that involvement in human rights impacts may pose to the enterprise, although the two are increasingly related.

Human rights performance - The extent to which a company achieves the objective of effectively preventing and addressing negative human rights impacts with which it may be or has been involved.

Indigenous peoples – Given the diversity of indigenous peoples, an official definition of “indigenous” has not been adopted by any UN-system body. Instead the system has developed a modern understanding of this term based on a number of factors: self-identification as indigenous peoples at the individual level and accepted by the community as their member; historical continuity with pre-colonial and/or pre-settler societies; strong link to territories and surrounding natural resources; distinct social, economic or political systems; distinct language, culture and beliefs, from non-dominant groups of society; resolve to maintain and reproduce their ancestral environments and systems as distinctive peoples and communities. (See the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples).

International Bill of Human Rights – This term covers the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights.

Key industry risks - The risks commonly regarded as potentially severe and/or likely within the industry and that companies are expected to demonstrate through a process of human rights due diligence, how they are preventing them or why they are not relevant. Therefore, while these risks are anticipated to be relevant given the company’s industry, they may not necessarily be the individual company’s most salient human rights issues. See also ‘Salient human rights issues’ below.

Legitimate tenure rights holders - Existing tenure rights holders, whether recorded/formal/recognised or not, which can include those of customary and informal tenure, groups under customary tenure systems, those holding subsidiary tenure rights, such as gathering rights (FAO CFS Voluntary Guidelines on the Responsible Governance of Tenure of Land, Fisheries and Forests in the Context of National Food Security).

Leverage - The ability of a company to effect change in the wrongful practices of another party that is causing or contributing to an adverse human rights impact.

Living Wage - There are numerous definitions of living wage but the core concept is to provide a decent standard of living for a worker and his or her family. A living wage is sufficient to cover food, water, clothing, transport, education, health care and other essential needs for workers and their family based on a regular work week not including overtime hours.

Marginalised groups - Refers to individuals belonging to specific groups or populations that require particular attention, including indigenous peoples, women, national or ethnic, religious or linguistic minorities; children; persons with disabilities; and migrant workers and their families. (UN Guiding Principle 12 and see Table 16).

Materiality - Materiality refers to what is really important or has great consequences, and the various definitions of materiality will take differing views depending on who is asking for and for what purpose. For company public reporting, materiality often refers to a threshold used to determine what information a company will disclose in its formal reporting. Definitions of what constitutes that threshold vary considerably.

Mitigation - The mitigation of a negative human rights impact refers to actions taken to reduce the extent of the impact. The mitigation of a human rights risk refers to actions taken to reduce the likelihood that a potential negative impact will occur.

Negative (or adverse) impact on human rights - A negative or adverse human rights impact occurs when an action removes or reduces the ability of an individual to enjoy his or her human rights.

Prevention - The prevention of a negative human rights impact refers to actions taken to ensure the impact does not occur.

Public commitment to respect human rights - A high-level and widely available statement by a company that sets out its intention to respect human rights with the expectation of being accountable for achieving that aim (UN Guiding Principle 16).

Remediation/Remedy – Refers to both the process of providing remedy for a negative human rights impact and the substantive outcomes that can counteract, or make good, the negative impact. These outcomes may take a range of forms such as apologies, restitution, rehabilitation, financial or non-financial compensation, and punitive sanctions (whether criminal or administrative, such as fines), as well as the prevention of harm through, for example, injunctions or guarantees of non-repetition.

Responsibility to respect human rights - The responsibility of a company to avoid infringing on the human rights of others and to address negative impacts with which it may be involved, as set out in the UN Guiding Principles.

Salient human rights issues - Those human rights that are at risk of the most severe negative impacts through a company’s activities or business relationships. They therefore vary from company to company. See also ‘Key Industry Risks’.

Severe human rights impact - A negative human rights impact is severe by virtue of one or more of the following characteristcs: its scale, scope or irremediability. Scale means the gravity of the impact on the human right(s). Scope means the number of individuals that are or could be affected. Irremediability means the ease or otherwise with which those impacted could be restored to their prior enjoyment of the right(s).

Stakeholder - Any individual or organisation that may affect, or be affected by a company’s actions and decisions. In the UN Guiding Principles the primary focus is on affected or potentially affected stakeholders, meaning individuals whose human rights have been or may be affected by a company’s operations, products or services. Other particularly relevant stakeholders in the context of the UN Guiding Principles are the legitimate representatives of potentially affected stakeholders, including trade unions, as well as civil society organisations and others with experience and expertise related to business impacts on human rights.

Stakeholder engagement/consultation - An ongoing process of interaction and dialogue between a company and its stakeholders that enables the company to hear, understand and respond to their interests and concerns, including through collaborative approaches.

Suppliers - Refers to direct, contracted or tier 1 suppliers.

Supply chain - Refers to all supply chain business relationships, including both direct and indirect, tier 1 and beyond.

UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights (UN Guiding Principles/UNGP) - A set of 31 principles that set out the respective roles of States and companies in ensuring that companies respect human rights in their business activities and through their business relationships. The UN Guiding Principles were endorsed by the United Nations Human Rights Council in 2011.

Value chain - A company’s value chain encompasses the activities that convert input into output by adding value. It includes entities with which it has a direct or indirect business relationship and which either (a) supply products or services that contribute to the company’s own products or services or (b) receive products or services from the company.

Water stewardship - Water stewardship is the use of water in ways that are socially equitable, environmentally sustainable, and economically beneficial. It can be adopted by businesses, through corporate water stewardship, as well as by growers, communities, and others. Ultimately, stewardship is a tool to address these critical water challenges and drive sustainable water management.

Workers - An individual performing work for a company, regardless of the existence or nature of any contractual relationship with that company.
